

Woman, 54, Killed When Struck by Car

Mrs. Elmer Broehm Was Walking Along County Trunk A

Neenah — Mrs. Elmer Broehm, 55, of 147 Fourth street, Neenah, was injured fatally when struck by a car driven by Walter A. Strey, 60, route 1, Neenah, while she was walking on County Trunk A, two miles south of here at 7:40 p.m. Tuesday.

She was taken in the Neenah ambulance to the Clark hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival. Her death was the 12th for Winnebago county this year. A year ago, there were 11 traffic deaths at this time. She was identified at the hospital by her husband and son, Marvin, 1920 Henry street, at 11:30 p.m., after questioning of residents near the scene of the accident failed to determine her identity. She carried no identification.

Seemed Depressed Strey told Winnebago county police he was driving north on County Trunk A when a car approached him with bright lights. About the time the two cars met and passed, he heard something hit the front of his car and slide toward the windshield.

He stopped the car and saw Mrs. Broehm slide from the hood onto the ground. The left front fender and hood of his car were damaged.

The son told sheriff's deputies his mother had been depressed.

Skin Diver Claims Shark Attacked Him

Richmond, Calif. — A skin diver says a white shark tossed him about like a dog shakes a bone but failed to wound him in Bodega bay, 40 miles north of San Francisco's Golden Gate.

Jim Hay, 30, who said yesterday he was the target of the underwater assault Sunday, added that the only damage was a gash in his rubber swim fin, which the shark grabbed in its tooth-studded mouth.

Hay recalled he was hunting alone with Tony Seeboc, 16, of nearby El Sobrante and was about 20 feet below the surface when the shark struck "with a shocking jar." Hay swam for the surface but was dragged under again by "a violent jerk." The diver continued.

Picked Up by Boat All he said he could see as his mask filled with water was the fish's gills, as he was slammed backward against its side.

The shark finally let go, Hay continued, and the diver and Seeboc climbed onto nearby Bird Rock, where they were picked up by a passing fishing boat.

Seeboc said he saw the shark drag Hay under. He described it as dull white with a dorsal fin about two feet high.

Several great white sharks were caught and killed in Bodega bay and nearby areas after one of them killed Albert Kogler off a San Francisco beach last spring. Hay did not say why he delayed reporting the attack.

Richmond is a San Francisco bay city.

Fact-Finding Board Urges New Talks in Dock Strike

No Prospects Of Accord in Steel Dispute

Union's Pay-Policy Committee Sent Home by McDonald

Pittsburgh — United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald sent his wage-policy committee home today. He said steel strike settlement prospects appeared hopeless.

McDonald indicated he felt the next step will be for President Eisenhower to invoke the Taft-Hartley law to end the strike for an 80-day period. But McDonald said the union will fight any such court injunction in the courts.

He pledged the union, failing to upset an injunction, would "obey the law of the land."

The union chief said there was nothing in the steel negotiations picture to "indicate hope for settlement in the near future."

No Sign of Agreement In strongly opposing use of the T-H law McDonald again called for appointment by Eisenhower of a public fact-finding board to sift the strike issues and recommend a settlement solution.

Eisenhower has expressed distaste for such a board, but has said he would name one if the industry joined the union in endorsing the idea. The industry has indicated any White House intervention should be the Taft-Hartley procedure.

Under Taft-Hartley a board of inquiry would be confined to making a factual report on the situation.

Sobolev is a member of the Soviet permanent delegation.

$1,025,000 Expansion of Outagamie Port Offered

State's Ideas Include Rerouting of French Road, Present Highway 41

A plan to spend $1,025,000 on the Outagamie county airport and to relocate present Highway 41 and French road was handed to the county Monday.

The state aeronautics commission's master plan also rules out carrying the proposed north-south cross runway over present Highway 41, since the commission considers a tunnel some 1,300 feet long would be too expensive.

The county board's airport committee authorized the commission to apply for federal aid for the plan with work to start in 1961. The commission is authorized to submit plans for a cross runway, taxiways, a 2,000-foot extension for the present runway and acquire all land required.

Not Committed (Despite the committee action, the county is not committed to the plan. The county can, through the state, make an application for federal aid and not be absolutely committed to the plans submitted. The final approval of the plans comes when the state asks the county for money, usually about six months to a year.

Alaskan Indians Win Claim in Federal Court

Washington — The U.S. Court of Claims decided today that a small group of Alaskan Indians are entitled to be paid for more than 20 million acres of land taken from their ancestors by the white man.

Millions of dollars could be involved. The Indians — about 7,000 of the Tlingit and Haida groups — had sued for compensation for fishing and hunting rights and for the value of the land their ancestors lost.

Expects to Report to President Tomorrow on Swift Investigation

Washington — President Eisenhower's emergency fact-finding board completed a public hearing today on the strike of east and gulf coast stevedores with an appeal to the parties to resume bargaining at once and hammer out a solution.

Chairman Guy Farmer told newsmen he expects that "barring something we cannot foresee, we will file a report tomorrow."

Mario Lanza Dies in Rome

Famous Tenor Reported Victim Of Heart Disease

Rome — American tenor Mario Lanza died today in a Rome hospital.

Lanza had been in the hospital for about a week, reportedly for treatment of a minor illness.

A friend said he suffered a heart attack and died shortly after noon.

He was 38. Lanza two years ago undertook a new movie career in Europe after several years of controversial activity in the United States.

A Philadelphia boy, Lanza vaulted to fame with the film "The Great Caruso." He earned $1,100,000 in one year, more than half of it in phonograph records. In 1952 he was about the hottest thing in U. S. show business.

Two years later he was in debt to the United States government and having a hard time finding bookings. One of the reasons was that he got too fat for romantic parts.

"He was a sick man," his friend Irving Aronson said of the period in which Lanza ballooned in size, failed to fill a Las Vegas engagement and was accused of breaking a Hollywood movie contract.

Lanza was born in the Little Italy section of Philadelphia. His real name was Alfredo Arnold Cocozza. He later adopted his mother's name of Lanza for professional use.

on its planned orbit today after rounding the moon, but the Soviets so far have not said what it found on the other side.

A Soviet announcement last night said the cosmic rocket reached a point 7,000 kilometers (4,349.6 miles) from the moon at 8:16 a.m. CST yesterday and then "kept its movement turning around the moon."

By noon, the announcement continued, the rocket was 15,000 kilometers (9,320.5 miles) from the moon's surface and continuing "on its predetermined orbit." This was supposed to take it on around the moon and into a long oval orbit around the earth at the other end.

At that time, the Russians said, the lunik was 230,925 miles from the earth, over the Atlantic ocean east of the islands of Martin Vas.

The Soviet announcement said preliminary processing of data from the satellite showed the temperature aboard ranges from 25 to 30 degrees Centigrade — a comfortable 77 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit — and that a predetermined pressure of 1.001 millimeters of mercury is being maintained.

The apparatus of the solar batteries and the chemical sources for supplying energy are functioning normally, the announcement added.

If Eisenhower chooses, this could set in motion the procedures under the Taft-Hartley labor act which would lead to a federal court order enjoining the 7-day-old strike for 80 days of cooling off and bargaining.

The hearing was finished in one hour and 45 minutes. As it ended, Farmer reminded spokesmen of the striking International Longshoremen's association and the waterfront employers that Taft-Hartley "will not bring about any solution of this dispute."

Urges Conference He urged the parties to "make every effort to get together to bring about a peaceful settlement."

Spokesmen for both sides agreed — but their positions, as outlined in sharp and hostile terms to the 3-man panel, gave little promise of early agreement.

In presenting their case to the panel the stevedores contended employer demands would result in "wholesale" elimination of jobs.

Management came back with an accusation that the walkout is an "irresponsible and illegal" violation of an agreement to extend for 15 days the contract which expired Sept. 30.

Louis Waldman, attorney for the International Longshoremen's association got in first with the argument about job elimination.

He told the panel in a statement that the employers wanted a free hand in automation of cargo handling methods. In the last three years, Waldman said, automation has "threatened to deprive ILA members of substantial numbers of jobs."

Following Waldman, Alexander P. Chopin, chairman of the New York Shipping Association, Inc., told the fact-finders his organization and the ILA agreed to the contract extension last Wednesday. Within two or three hours thereafter, he said, New York Local 791 voted to defy the extension pact.

He quoted William V. Bradley, ILA president, as stating that the strike was in support of gulf port locals which had no such extension agreement.

"We are informed that the ILA now maintains that until such time as the south Atlantic and gulf ports agree to whatever terms are negotiated in New York, there will be no contract consummated and put into effect in New York," Chopin said.

"Such a position is completely contrary to law."

$10,000 to Railroad Got City Nothing

Abstract Shows Appleton Lacks Right to Improve Bellaire Ravine

Appleton paid the Chicago and North Western Railway company $10,000 in 1946 for a right-of-way strip through Bellaire park ravine, but the money bought nothing.

This was the long-awaited report handed the board of public works Tuesday by Director of Public Works Duszynski.

What the railroad sold the city was a quit claim deed which gave the city whatever the railroad's interest in the land was at that time.

An abstract obtained by City Atty. Jury shows, reported Duszynski, that the railroad obtained the land originally by promising it would revert to abutting property owners when the railroad abandoned the trackage.

Map Details Owners

A map which Duszynski produced puts most of the Fox river frontage along the park and all of the deeply wooded ravine between Fox River Tractor company and a point midway between the company and Pacific street bridge, in private property owners' hands. The rest reverted to the city because of its ownership of Bellaire park.

This not only means the park board presently has no right to improve parts of the ravine, but the city has no easements for two sanitary sewers and one storm sewer trunk which follows the creek.

Testifies Show Rigged

Network Deceived, Witness Indicates

Washington — A public relations consultant for producers of the TV quiz program "Twenty-One" testified today the show was rigged.

At the same time, the witness, Alfred Davis, said an attorney advised his public-relations firm not to tell the truth to New York authorities investigating charges that contestants were given questions and answers in advance.

Davis identified the attorney as Edwin Slope of New York.

In effect, Davis said his firm and Barry and Enright, Inc., owners of the quiz program, had deceived the National Broadcasting company by not telling them the truth. NBC was the network that carried "Twenty-One," one of the biggest quiz shows until it collapsed last year after charges it was rigged.

Davis was the leadoff witness on the second day of an inquiry by the house legislative oversight subcommittee into quiz show scandals.

Under questioning, Davis said Slope had advised him to get out of town after authorities began looking into the charges against the program.

"Where did he advise you to go?" asked Robert W. Lishman, subcommittee counsel. "As far away as possible," Davis replied.

Davis testified that publication by New York newspapers of stories about alleged rigging of the program led to a series of meetings in 1957 and 1958 attended by representatives of the producers, Davis' own firm and NBC.

Afterward, he said, NBC issued a statement that it had found the charges baseless.

Election Eve Push Starts in England

Latest Opinion Poll Shows Lead Of Conservatives at 2½ Per Cent

London —(AP)— Britain's political parties made lightning election eve canvasses today in a final effort to carry the country's huge bloc of uncommitted voters.

The latest public opinion poll showed 83 per cent of the voters in 50 key districts in the "don't know" or "won't tell" column.

Even the chiefs of the two major parties were cagey about predicting the results of tomorrow's election of a new house of commons.

Weather Factor

The weather — a telling factor in British elections — seemed uncertain, with rain forecast in the west, and sun for the east. Rain tends to keep the voters away from the polls. Past elections have shown Laborites to be more easily deterred than Conservatives.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's conservative party, seeking a third term in control of the government, could draw a grain of encouragement from the latest Daily Telegraph poll, which gave them a 2½ per cent lead over their labor party rivals in 50 key constituencies.

According to the poll, the conservatives can bank on support from 42½ per cent of the electorate, while labor has 40 per cent sewed up and the liberals 4½ per cent.

One-half of 1 per cent of those questioned told interviewers they would vote for communist or other splinter group candidates, and four per cent said they did not plan to vote.

Neck and Neck

Other recent polls have shown the two main parties — labor and conservative — racing neck-and-neck with up to one fifth of those questioned among the "don't knows."

Britain has 35,400,000 eligible voters.

The conservative party chairman, Lord Hailsham, told newsmen that "our pledged support is marginally higher than in 1955, with fewer pledges against us, and more 'don't knows.'" But Hailsham refused to make a firm prediction of the outcome.

Labor Party Secretary Morgan Phillips was almost as cautious as Hailsham, saying "we will get a working majority if there is a high poll (good turnout) and full response from party workers and supporters."

7,100 Injured In High School Athletic Events

Madison —(AP)— High school athletic programs resulted in injuries to 7,100 students in Wisconsin during the 1958-59 school year, the State Medical society reported.

Society figures, based on insurance claims, showed football accounted for 3,984, or more than 4 per cent of the total. Basketball added 1,184 to the injured list, wrestling 401, track 271, and baseball 194.

In an attempt to stem the toll, the society said it will sponsor a special athletic injuries clinic Thursday in Eau Claire. Coaches, administrators, instructors and physicians from a surrounding 15-county area have been asked to participate.

Nixon Warns Reds of Use Of Subversion

3-Day CENTO Session At Washington Opened With Talk

Washington —(AP)— Vice President Nixon today warned Russia use of subversion against free nations would endanger the concept of peaceful competition advanced by Nikita S. Khrushchev during his U. S. visit.

Nixon spoke at the opening of a 3-day meeting of the Central Treaty Organization — the former Baghdad pact group which forms a Middle Eastern defense alliance along Russia's borders.

Full pomp and circumstance attended the event in which Nixon welcomed leaders from Turkey, Iran, Pakistan and Great Britain at the CENTO gathering.

Supports CENTO

The United States, although it is not a formal member of the group, heavily supports its defense and economic activities.

Referring to peaceful overtures made by Soviet Premier Khrushchev on his tour of the United States, Nixon warned against relaxing free world defense efforts at this time. He said while some may see a change in the world situation, and one can be hopeful about resuming negotiations on Berlin, there should be no illusion that the basic situation has changed.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Iran's Prime Minister Manouchehr Eghbal, Turkey's Prime Minister Adnan Menderes and Britain's Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia were scheduled to join Nixon in the ceremonial opening.

Closed Sessions

Then the CENTO leaders planned to go into closed sessions for talks about the world situation and CENTO's progress.

Herter, at his news conference Tuesday, indicated no dramatic new development is to be expected as a result of the discussions.

Of this country's refusal to become a formal member of the pact, as the Middle East allies would like, Herter explained:

"On balance, we have de-

Police Arrest Youth Who Lived Like King

New York Clerk Collected Credit Cards and Ran Up $10,000 Bills

New York —(AP)— Police Tuesday night arrested a 19-year-old former $55-a-week clerk who they said collected a couple of credit cards and lived like a king for five weeks.

They said he had run up bills of more than $10,000. Miraglia for plane trips to Las Vegas, Montreal, Miami and Havana, had indulged himself with the best suites in the most fashionable hotels, champagne for breakfast, clothes of impeccable taste, and a fur stole for a girl friend.

But the little cards don't supply spending money so it was necessary to cash a photo check or two. Joseph Robert Miraglia was arrested after checking into an expensive suite at Manhattan's Hotel Plaza and trying to cash a $120 check.

Police said the youth told them he got interested in credit cards while working as a clerk. His first card was with the Chase Manhattan bank, where he had a small checking account. Later he successfully applied for a Carte Blanche card. From then on, it was holiday all the time.

He took a suite at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel and, among other things, ordered champagne for breakfast. Then, he flew up to Montreal for a little trip during which he met a girl to whom he gave a $800 stole. After returning to New York, he checked into the Plaza and cashed a check for $150.

Refused Charge

It occurred, but by that time Miraglia was in Las Vegas. Then he went to Miami, where he checked in at the Fontainebleau. When the hotel refused to charge a drink to him, he protested and his Carte Blanche card was taken away from him.

But he still had the Chase Manhattan card, so he flew to Havana and cashed a $600 check at a hotel there. When he returned to New York, he checked in at the Plaza again with $2 in his pocket. He registered for a $38-a-day suite.

When he tried to cash another check, the hotel credit manager, Sheila Lee, remembered him from the first check. The hotel turned him over to police. He was charged with fraud.

Rejected Hypodermic Needles Alarm School Officials in Ohio

Columbus, Ohio —(AP)— Hundreds of scrapped hypodermic needles gave alarmed school officials a prickly feeling today.

Pupils at three schools on the city's west side turned up in class yesterday with the medical syringes.

So far, police said, the needles had been used as squirt guns. But collecting about 200 of the rejects, they warned of possible dangers such as the youngsters playing doctor.

The needles of plastic, were rejects from a nearby plant which makes the instruments. Defective, they had been put out for trash collection. But the kids, from grade and junior high schools, picked them up.

GOP Wonders About Move in Eastern State

Governor Plans to Support Bridges In March Primary

Washington —(AP)— Republicans wondered today whether a political squeeze play is developing in New Hampshire that could affect the 1960 GOP presidential nomination contest.

Gov. Wesley Powell said yesterday he is prepared to support Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) as a favorite son candidate. That came as chilling news for supporters who have been trying to get New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller into the state's presidential primary next March.

There is speculation that if the senator were to let his name go into the primary, there would not be much room left for either Rockefeller or Vice President Richard M. Nixon to enter the contest.

Since Bridges is tabbed as an out-and-out Nixon supporter, a favorite son delegation could be expected to throw its support to the vice president at the July party convention.

Powell Neutral

On the other hand, Nixon's friends were obviously disappointed by Powell's fresh declaration at a news conference that he is maintaining neutrality between Nixon and Rockefeller.

Asked to evaluate their qualifications for the presidential nomination the governor said he regards them so far as equal.

Because Powell is a former protege of and administrative assistant to Bridges, Nixon's backers had hoped the governor would be on their side by now.

But Powell may face a stiff fight for renomination and election next year. Some New Hampshire politicians thought his comment about Bridges might be a means of sidestepping a direct presidential stand now to await further developments.

Bridges didn't say yes and he didn't say no to Powell's idea that he become a favorite

Farmers No Longer Deduct From Taxes Food Raised, Eaten

Madison —(AP)— Farmers no longer have to deduct the value of food raised and consumed on the farm from their expenses in filing state income tax returns.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson signed into law Tuesday a bill providing the tax break. The department of taxation estimated this would result in a loss of revenue of about $156,000 a year.

The governor vetoed a bill which would have increased the jurisdiction of the Ripon Municipal court and made it a full time court. He said the court's workload did not justify the change.

F. D. Roosevelt's Son Releases Biography of Former U. S. President

F. D. R. Called 1944 Election 'Dirtiest Campaign in History'

Washington —(AP)— Franklin D. Roosevelt called his 1944 presidential contest with Thomas E. Dewey "the dirtiest campaign in history."

"The little man made me pretty mad," the late president wrote later to his eldest son, Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif.).

Roosevelt's biography, written with the help of Sidney Shalett, by Roosevelt's son, is called, "Affectionately, F. D. R., A Son's Story of a Lonely Man." It is a warm portrait, a "document of love" as the son describes it, of the man who won the presidency four times and led the country during World War II.

Rep. Roosevelt said at the time of the 1944 Democratic convention in Chicago his father "professed not to 'give a damn' whether the delegates came up with Justice Douglas, Jimmy Byrnes, or Sen. Harry Truman" as his running mate.

Truman, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, who later held other government posts, all were prominently mentioned for the nomination.

In World War I, while Roosevelt was assistant secretary of the navy, he "almost got his head blown off" when a young seaman pulled the lanyard of a gun that happened to be aimed at the bridge of the destroyer U.S.S. Dyer. The shell whistled by a few feet away from Roosevelt as he stood on the bridge.

The president's father wanted to name him Isaac after his grandfather, but his mother detested the name and wouldn't allow it. "My only regret," writes the president's son, "is that, had tradition been respected, there would have been an 'Ike' — Ike Roosevelt! — in the White House long before the advent of a certain military man."

Leading Art Authority Dies at 94

Florence, Italy —(AP)— Bernard Berenson, the world's leading authority on Italian Renaissance art, died today. He was 94.

An American and a graduate of Harvard university, he left Boston shortly after graduation and had lived in Italy for the last 73 years.

Later in life he revealed that he still considered Boston his home. He willed his beautiful 40-room villa, I Tatti, just outside Florence, and its superb collection of art treasures to Harvard for use as a center for scholars abroad.

Some of America's greatest art collections are monuments to Berenson's scholarship and taste.

Art Buyer

He began his career as art buyer for Mrs. Jack Gardner of Boston, assembling the nucleus of the Fenway Court collection she left as a museum.

His biggest influence came as chief advisor to the late Lord Duveen, the dealer who assembled most big private American collections before World War II. In the process Berenson amassed a comfortable fortune for himself.

Berenson also produced a succession of books on Renaissance art which are considered classics in the field. Among the most famous are his first, "Venetian Painters of the Renaissance," published in 1894, and "Drawings of the Florentine Painters,"

Husband, Wife Found Shot

2nd Murder-Suicide In Milwaukee In Last Two Days

Milwaukee —(AP)—The bodies of a 56-year-old man and his 46-year-old wife were found in their small home Tuesday night. Both had been shot to death.

Police said that James Dodd apparently shot and killed his wife, Lucille, and then turned the gun on himself. The bodies were found after police forced their way into their cottage.

It was the second murder-suicide in the city in two days.

Neighbors Call Police

Neighbors called police after they grew suspicious because they had not seen Dodd or his wife Tuesday. They said the Dodds had been divorced and then remarried.

Police believe the shooting occurred late Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Dodd's body was found on a cot covered with a blanket. She was shot in the right side of the head. Dodd was found, also shot in the head, on a bed in the front bedroom. A .22 caliber revolver and four empty shell casings were beside him, near his hand.

Police said the Monday afternoon paper had been taken in and read but the Tuesday paper was still inside the front screen door. This led them to believe the shooting occurred late Monday.

The bodies of three persons were found in a south side cottage in a double murder-suicide Monday night.

The Injunction May Help Workers, Too

The word "injunction" is anathema to many members of organized labor who seem to feel it is an instrument used only to protect the rights of the employers. Nevertheless the injunction may also be used to protect the rights of workers.

In Detroit recently the three large newspapers there were unable to print because of an apparent labor dispute. It was a strange work stoppage because the strike was alleged to be of the mailing room workers. However, 85 per cent of the mailers went to work and were not in the least interested in the strike. So far as that department was concerned the papers could have printed. Nevertheless they were stopped because a picket line had been set up by the Indianapolis leaders of the ITU Mailers' Union. Although the Detroit mailers, members of another union, continued to work the printers refused to cross the ITU picket line. Of course the printers, although members of the general ITU, had no reason to strike and they were annoyed and troubled. Action by the National Labor Relations Board against the work stoppage and an injunction issued by Judge Theodore Levin brought an end to the affair and permitted the people of Detroit to receive their papers as usual.

The Detroit News points out that none of the usual issues in a labor dispute were involved. No matter how the strike turned out no worker on any of the papers was scheduled to get any more money, there were to be no changes in the working schedules or in the conditions of employment. The mail room workers who were supposed to be on strike were not interested. The printers who brought about the stoppage by refusing to cross the picket line had no interest in the strike and were merely conforming to the rule of not crossing picket lines established by their union.

The picket line was set up by the Indianapolis office of the International Typographical Union Mailers. That group had lost in a National Labor Relations Board election for representation in Detroit back in 1957 and was setting about to reestablish its authority.

Apparently it had merely happened that the Indianapolis office had found time to give a little attention to Detroit and had set about to bring pressure upon the newspapers and their employees to establish their control over the mailers. To bring this about they had no compunction whatever about causing their own member printers to lose wages, they were not interested in the fact it would cost the publishers of the paper a great deal of money and loss of revenue and that the people of Detroit would be without their newspapers for a period of time.

It is an example of irresponsibility and almost unbelievable arrogance on the part of union leadership. This is a good example of the disregard of the rights of the public. It serves to illustrate why people of this country demanded and got the labor reform legislation recently adopted by congress and it invites examination by serious union leaders who may be seeking someone to blame for the action of congress and the Eisenhower administration. We are sure congress never would have passed any of the restrictions on labor which are contained in the new reform law if they were not under pressure to do so from the people who are tired of such unfair practices by irresponsible labor leaders.

Trial in Turkey

Back when the NATO Status of Forces Treaty was ratified by the United States Senate there were dire predictions that American servicemen were to be forced to live under laws and systems of justice totally different from those in this country and often contrary to constitutional safeguards. Actually such treaties have been negotiated for a long time and any American on foreign soil probably would be held responsible for local laws unless there was a treaty to the contrary.

But the constitutional question still remains and it has been ducked by the supreme court. A treaty, which is the "law of the land" such as the Status of Forces one, can and does conflict at times with other sections of the constitution. Which part is paramount? Further, can we really expect to raise the quality of world justice by subjecting our citizens to lower levels? And can we morally justify the abuse of even one citizen on the grounds that the over-all gains are in our favor?

The subject has been reopened since the arrest two months ago of four United States sergeants in Turkey for alleged black-market deals in currency. The sergeants have not yet been brought to trial although there have been three recessed hearings. Two of them complained that they were beaten to confess and two Turkish policemen have been charged with that crime. But witnesses for the Americans were not permitted to testify.

Supposed safeguards of American rights when arrested in a foreign nation include the attendance at the trial of Foreign Service representatives. Obviously this puts much of the accused's fate into the hands of one man, his opinions about the offense and his judgment about the relative importance of the arrested American and relations between the two nations. The state department insists that the representatives in Turkey "have lived up to the best traditions of the Foreign Service." But the American sergeants are still in jail and untied.

A study made two years ago concluded that the Status of Forces Treaty with NATO countries and Japan has not been abused and that, in general, the rights of Americans accused had been upheld. But we suspect that there may be more trouble in the future as gratitude wears off, as nations like Turkey re-establish dictatorial policies, as American officials fail to stand up and fight for the rights even of American criminals.

The results of another study in two or three years should be interesting.

Leave the Language Alone!

The appalling business of leveling the population so that everyone is and sounds just like his neighbor is getting a boost in England. Hatfield Grammar in Hertfordshire is going to see that its graduates, many of them cockneys, sound like students at Oxford or announcers on the BBC.

Undoubtedly the speech specialist was hired with some sort of transformation like that of Eliza Doolittle in mind. He will use records of the spoken word featuring Laurence Olivier and other experts in the King's — or Queen's — English. And, like Henry Higgins in My Fair Lady he plans to use ridicule when accents are dropped or "cors" or "blimeys" sound through the classrooms.

Probably the scholars are right in insisting that speech has a lot to do with what one does or where one goes in life. But idiosyncracies of language occur in every major tongue and any student of a foreign language knows, for instance, how different Parisian French is from the patois spoken in Quebec, or "high German" from that used in Bavaria. One can be very philosophical about there being more things than language to success and also that speaking poorly is much a matter of laziness and bad habit. But certainly it will be a sad, monotonous day when everyone in the United States sounds alike.

The southern drawl and expressions like "yonder comes Joe," "come see us" and even the overworked "y'all" should never be lost to the language. The terms for various objects and activities are just as regional and fascinating. We hope New Englanders continue to call overshoes "arctics," that Midwesterners will always "do up" their beds, and that the Milwaukee Germans go right on putting their verbs at the ends of their sentences.

Language, like food, should retain its regional and nationalistic flavor. We don't want it all packaged from the freezer.

What Others are Saying

Loss of Gold, Trade Balance Is Threat

From The Charleston, W. Va., Daily Mail

Since World War II it has been a fixation of American foreign policy that the United States is duty bound to distribute its wealth abroad — not as charity, but as a means of underpinning our own economic stability and military security.

First through the Marshall plan and later in variations upon the theme of military assistance, it has poured billions of dollars abroad. This money has not been wasted. Few critics of foreign aid are so blind that they insist the United States has received nothing in return. But in a front page story in the New York Times there are the first faint signs of some disillusionment with this largesse as an inevitable and permanent fixture of American policy.

One factor in this change, of course is the continued decline in the American gold reserve. It is down to about $19.5 billion, and although no one regards it as dangerous, with the trend.

Another factor is the continuing American deficit in international transactions. It ran to $3.4 billion last year and will probably go higher this year.

A third is the steady growth of foreign investments in the United States. Already these total more than $15 billion, a potential claim on the gold reserve almost enough to wipe it out.

None of this amounts to or even threatens a "run" on the American bank — not yet, at any rate. But as Edwin L. Dale, Jr., reviews these developments in the Times they raise some questions. Among them is this one: Of what lasting benefit would it be for the United States to permit this outflow of dollars if, as a result, the dollar continues to decline in value?

There is just a suggestion here that the United States may have built itself a treadmill which does not point in the direction of either economic stability or military security.

Mothers Should Instruct Their Daughters How to be Baby Sitters

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This is a plea to "some" mothers whose teenage daughters go babysitting.

Remember, I said "some"!

It seems to me, you believe when your girls are 13 to 17 years old, they should be earning their own spending money, which is as it should be.

But, why do you send them out to baby sit, almost completely ignorant of anything connected with the job? If you think they are ready to accept such a responsibility, (what could be more important than being entrusted with the good care and safety of children?) why don't you prepare them for it, and not send them to a home when you know they're not capable.

I would not bother to bring up the subject publicly, if I were the only one who has had the misfortune of hiring incapable sitters, but I've talked the problem over with eight of my friends, and its the same story.

I am going to list some of the major and logical duties, that today's baby sitters just do not do. While you're reading them, perhaps it would be a good idea if you ask yourselves if you've ever stressed these points to your daughters before sending them to care for other people's children.

Here are the most common complaints:

1 Seems to be allergic to diapers. If she knows how to change them at all.

2 Is too lazy to straighten up the living room, or even put a few toys in a corner, out of the way.

3 Doesn't know anything about caring for a small baby — giving a bottle, burping, changing.

4 If the baby's been fed, just before we leave, she doesn't even rinse out the bottle.

5 Does not check on the children, all of us have come home and found their blankets undisturbed at the foot of the bed. When we inquire how everything went, she'll say, "Johnny cried for maybe an hour, but then he went to sleep." She doesn't know why, because she didn't bother to go in his room and find out why he woke up!

One nite my husband and I came home to find our oldest child who was about 1 1/2 years at the time, sitting in his "upchucked" supper, crying so loud we heard him when we were unlocking the door, and the baby sitter so sound asleep we practically had to resort to dousing her with cold water to wake her up.

I don't believe anyone will argue the fact that mothers of several young (or older) children are entitled to some time away from the house, but it takes the joy out of going if you have to be worrying all evening about the kind of care your children are getting.

All it takes is a few minutes of your time to explain the basic duties of babysitting to your daughters, just as you at one time wanted that girl to be in capable hands. If you don't have a baby in your home to demonstrate on how to put on a diaper, surely you can find a doll somewhere, so she can practice. If you don't want to take the time, then please don't send them on a job they can't handle. After all, any one can come and just sit in the chair for a couple of hours.

If your daughters are so incompetent in their homes, I feel sorry for their future husbands and children.

From The Orlando, Fla., Sentinel

Russians, understandably, didn't want the UN to set up a 4-nation fact-finding subcommittee to investigate the situation in Laos.

But it's happy news that the UN security council overrode USSR veto attempts and went ahead anyway.

We're all pretty sure what the investigative body will find: that communists are stirring up trouble and are attacking the Laotian forces with the intention of gobbling up the country.

But when this is said officially it is bound, to cause some red faces in Moscow and Peking, and may actually result in a lessening of the communist drive for conquest.

Richmond Paper Mill Improved

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Oct. 9, 1880.

We found the Messrs. Richmond at home in their office, which has been elevated on a strong stone foundation.

They are "running the mill for all that it's worth," was the remark — that means turning out a large stock of manila and straw wrapping paper to fill their orders.

They have built a new stable at the west end of their grounds and when the filling in around their establishment is completed, they will be in finer shape than ever.

The Governor Takes a Look at Newspapers

BY GAYLORD NELSON Governor of Wisconsin

Madison — The regular author of this column frequently uses this space to discuss my business. It is only fair that I take this opportunity to discuss his business.

By that, I mean the part that the press plays in state government. I suspect that few persons, not intimately connected with either politics or newspapers, realize how important that role is.

The part played by newspapers cannot be exaggerated. It is just as important to the citizens of a state to have honest and conscientious reports covering the news as it is to have honest and conscientious officials. Thomas Jefferson said that he would prefer newspapers without a government to a government without newspapers, and I agree.

Daily throughout the year this newspaper's Madison correspondent discusses the affairs of prominent figures on his Madison "beat".

Starting today some of those prominent personalities will take over John Wyngaard's daily editorial page column, while he is away on vacation.

The series starts with an essay by Gov. Gaylord Nelson. As he puts it, Wyngaard discusses his business frequently. It is today his turn to discuss Wyngaard's business.

To an extent, it is newspaper reporters, and the editors who judge the news, who make the issues. A public official can make speeches, he thinks are important; but unless his ideas are thrown into the field of public discussion, he is wasting his time.

THE JUDGES

This is highly annoying to some politicians, but it makes a good deal of sense.

The newspaperman who judges these things is a mirror of public interest, and if an issue fails to interest him, it is almost certain to bore the public.

There are times when any politician disagrees with a reporter's news judgment, and I confess that I have sometimes been dismayed at what appears in print. But I have noticed that the public has a sort of unconscious talent for adding up the facts and that distortion usually is seen for what it is before too long.

I have tried to fulfill my own responsibility to the press, which is really a responsibility to the public. I have kept my door open to reporters and talked candidly with them... sometimes, my advisers tell me, too candidly. But I believe that if I am honest with reporters, they will be honest with me, and it seems to work.

Along the same line, I feel strongly that all public bodies must function in public, since their business is actually the people's business. This is the reason I both supported and signed the recent bill banning secrecy in state and local government.

If I may offer a note of criticism, I should like to suggest that all newspapers are not equally diligent in scouting out and campaigning against this kind of government secrecy. The new state law can do no more than establish the ground rules; it is up to local newspapers to carry on the actual battle.

RESPONSIBILITY

I think that in most areas where public bodies continue to do their business in private, one could charge that the local newspaper is not living up to its public responsibility.

The press deserves my gratitude for other reasons. For one thing, the give and take of a press conference provides a sharp test of one's ideas, and the official receives a sample of future public reaction. Editorials too, serve as a wellspring of ideas, and my staff and I read them carefully. On many issues, my decisions have been carefully reviewed in the light of editorial comments.

I have, perhaps, been luckier than some other politicians in my relation with the press. Even though most newspapers in Wisconsin follow a Republican line editorially, they have been fair to me, and I make no personal complaint about a one-party press. I hope that my actions will continue to merit this warm relationship.

Nothing but Best for Woodchuck

From The Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker News

One of the troubles with farming is that a man faces adversaries which are smarter than he likes to admit. Catbirds and robins always peck into the biggest and best strawberries; bluejays tear open the biggest pea pods and waxwings choose the plumpest cherries.

The woodchuck follows the avian theory of nothing but the best. Chug-Sug isn't content to nibble a few lettuce plants or a few string beans. Come August, he begins to poke among the cucumbers and squashes and invariably nibbles on the best.

We are not suggesting that woodchucks be eliminated. We need a few in February to appear on Groundhog Day and tell us what is in store for the balance of the winter.

Men use guns, traps and bombs against them; but if observation is correct, the woodchuck is holding its own.

Our common woodchuck is called the whistler, meadow pig, groundhog or whistle pig. The name does not matter. The woodchuck is a part of countryside life and it keeps a man on his toes to hold his own. Security, as the Bard said, may be mortals' chiefest enemy, but the countryman will not face this enemy so long as woodchucks enjoy his garden.

Council Asked to Plan Sewer for 1,200 Rural Acres South of City

Request Foresees Appleton Limits at Midway Road, 1,000 Feet West of 47

The city council tonight will be asked to plan an eventual southern expansion of sewers to serve about 1,200 acres in the towns of Harrison and Menasha.

Board of public works members Tuesday agreed to seek authorization for the engineering department to design an interceptor south out of sewage treatment plant that would be big enough to serve that much area.

The request envisions the south city limits some day extending to Old Manitowoc road in the town of Harrison and Midway road in the town of Menasha. It foresees the southwest corner of the city formed by Midway road and a north-south line about 1,000 feet west of Highway 47.

$430,000 Cost
Director of Public Works Duszynski told the works board an interceptor to serve that much acreage would cost about $258,000 at today's prices, and necessary trunks feeding it another $172,000, for a total of $430,000.

15 Fox Cities Area Seniors Semi-finalists

Fifteen Fox Cities area high school seniors are among 10,000 national semi-finalists for the 1960 Merit Scholarships given by the National Merit Scholarship corporation.

They were among high scorers in the state on the qualifying test given last spring. About 500,000 U.S. students took the test.

The Fox Cities area semi-finalists are William C. Barney, Alfred S. Bradford, Robert I. Recker and Susan L. Ward, all of Appleton High school; Thomas P. Verhagen, Kaukauna High school; Patricia R. Eastwood, July L. Lindquist and Judith Ann Zimmerman, Menasha High school; George E. Dix and Judy Ann Rogness, Neenah High school; Thomas J. Duex and Thomas C. Fiebig, Oshkosh High school; George N. Reeke, St. Norbert High school, DePere; and Larry A. Larson, Wittenberg High school.

Leslie Shipman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Shipman, 630 Wheeler street, Neenah, a senior at Wayland Academy, also is a semi-finalist.

Peter Easton, son of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Burnett Easton, Dubuque, Iowa, and former Appleton residents, also was named. He, too is a senior at Wayland.

On Dec. 5 the semi-finalists will take another examination, to become eligible as finalists. Finalists will be judged on grades, activities, citizenship, leadership and their test scores. Winners will be announced about May 1, 1960.

Amount of the scholarships actually received also is determined on the basis of need.

a year before construction. The entire county board would have to act on this.

(The committee action also does not rule out the question of a survey of other sites, the subject of numerous meetings between the county committee, a chamber of commerce committee and a citizens advisory committee. Future of the survey is, however, somewhat uncertain.)

Although the plan is a series of alternates, the costs are about the same. The million-dollar cost is for construction from 1961 through 1963, and other improvements are envisioned in 2- and 3-year segments through 1975.

$300,000 Initial Cost

However, in the portion to be submitted for 1961 work, the cost estimate is $300,000. This includes extending the present runway about 2,000 feet and moving its western end farther east to ease clearance problems in the heavily congested residential area west of the airport. The extension would require re-routing French road.

The 1961 program also includes building the cross runway and about 1,500 feet of taxiways.

Deadline for submitting the program to federal authorities is Nov. 30 and the airport committee will meet again with the commission and its consultants, Foth and Porath, Green Bay engineering firm, Oct. 27.

No county board action is necessary on the committee's action, since the county is not committed to the plan and no money has yet been spent or requested.

Violations Cited
Before any work can be done or any federal approval obtained, the two houses in violation of the county's zoning ordinance must be dealt with, Thomas Jordan, commission director, told the committee.

The two houses are on either side of E. Francis street at its intersection with Ballard road. The engineering study indicated the houses were 7 1/2 feet and 6 feet 4 inches, respectively, above the height restrictions set out by the county ordinance, adopted in 1952. The houses were built after the ordinance was passed.

Corporation Counsel Raymond Dohr said Monday that he had so far done nothing about the houses, explaining that there were two courses open to the county — court action to force compliance with the ordinance or court action to penalize the home owners for violating the ordinance.

Awaits Advice
Dohr said he is waiting for the state aeronautical commission's advice as to what was done in a similar case in La Crosse.

The state commission last December wrote Dohr that the county could not qualify for federal aid for any airport work until the obstructions were cleared.

The master plan offers two sites for the terminal facilities, which consistently have been located in the southwest section near the Chicago and North Western railway tracks. It may be more convenient, airport committee Chairman Mark Catlin commented, to place the terminal in the area just south of present Highway 41 and to the east of the proposed cross runway.

Location of the terminal somewhat depends on whether present Highway 41 is routed around the proposed cross runway extension over the present road. Re-routing would not take place until completion of the 12-mile relocation of 41 between Highway 10 and Kaukauna, tentatively set for 1961.

The plan advocates high intensity lighting for poor visibility landings on the main runway, a parallel runway along the main runway to handle heavy traffic, a control tower, additional airplane storage facilities, an instrument approach system and an overlay on the present runway to bring its capacity up to 30,000 pounds.

In addition, the plan includes taxiways, parking facilities, sewer and water facilities and the general requirements of a full-scale expansion of the port.

Nuclear Tests Subject of Panel Talks

Heads of Friends Committee to be Main Speaker

The biological, international and legislative aspects of nuclear weapons testing will be subject of a panel discussion featuring E. Raymond Wilson, executive secretary of the Friends Committee on National Legislation, of Washington, D. C.

The panel will be held at 8:30 p.m. Thursday at the courthouse annex, and is sponsored by the Outagamie County Democratic party.

Dr. William Riker, professor of government at Lawrence college, will be moderator. Other panel members will be Prof. Mojmir Povolny, Summer Richman, and Leonard Weiss, all of the Lawrence college faculty.

E. Raymond Wilson has been executive secretary of the Friends committee since the office was established in 1943. The committee concentrates on legislation affecting foreign policy, peace, civil liberties, disarmament and opposition to militarism.

Wilson has travelled extensively in Japan, Europe, Russia and the Far East. Prior to his work in Washington he was educational secretary of the peace section of the American Friends service committee and served as dean of faculties for educational programs in eleven institutes of international relations.

E. Raymond Wilson

Wilson's announcement said the change would offer two advantages: Greater use of college and university buildings at no added costs and students working toward degrees could get more credits and their degrees more quickly.

An inspection of combat support company, First Battle group, 127th Infantry, was held at the Appleton Armory Tuesday. A mortar and its crew were among the units inspected. Left to right are Pfc. William Deltgen, Appleton; Pfc. Ronald Lambie, Seymour; Specialist Richard Springstroh, Appleton; Maj. David Byers, Army advisor, Oshkosh; Lt. Col. John Lycas, inspecting officer, fifth army headquarters, Chicago; Col. F. F. Schweimler, Mosinee; and Capt. Donn Garrigan, commanding officer, Appleton.

Ask 8-Week Summer Class

Change Would Affect State Colleges, UW-M

Post-Crescent News Service

Madison — Gov. Nelson said Tuesday the budget he will submit to the November session of the legislature for the second year of the biennium will include funds to extend summer sessions from six to eight weeks at state colleges and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Nelson said the change can be made without additional costs. The executive budget will propose about $100,000 for the expanded program in state colleges and $40,000 for the longer summer sessions at the university branch in Milwaukee. Expenses would be recovered through increased summer school fees.

The change to an 8-week summer session may be considered by the board of state college regents Oct. 12 in Superior. The change was requested by the UW-M administration in its budget proposals.

The added two weeks would provide the same 8-week session as at the University of Wisconsin.

Nelson's announcement said the change would offer two advantages: Greater use of college and university buildings at no added costs and students working toward degrees could get more credits and their degrees more quickly.

bed in the ravine gully, it was noted. One of the sanitary lines was inherited from Whispering Pines sanitary district.

(It also is conceivable, Duszynski said today, that the place where two boys allegedly drank sewer water, one dying and the other becoming violently ill, was not on city property, but on an abutting property owner's land. The city, after court suit, paid parents $8,023.)

To Promise Pipe
Works board members suggested the dilemma be solved by the park board promising abutting property owners that all storm water in the ravine will be enclosed in pipe in return for deeds to the right-of-way strip, or an enlarged strip.

This would permit the park board to go ahead with its planned $225,000 improvement of the park and ravine, using monies it holds in trust from the George F. Peabody estate. It also would assure the city easements for access to its sewers.

Park Board Sec. Arthur W. Jones estimated the board already has spent $45,000 to $65,000 of the estate money, but will have enough left for the storm water pipe.

Contemplate Sale
Duszynski said he would furnish the park board with a cost estimate for the storm pipe project by Oct. 20. Offhand, he said the work probably would cost $55,000, plus cost of fill material to cover the pipe in places.

Jones indicated the park board probably will abandon much of its former plans for improvement of the river frontage. The real owners of the land, he explained, have opposed improvements from the beginning.

It was one of the river front owners who raised the question which eventually led to an order to Jury for an abstract.

When the park board revises its improvement plans, and the sewer question is settled, works board members indicated they intend to open the question of sale of a large tract at the north end of the ravine to Fox River Tractor company. The company has said it would like to buy.

and had complete confidence in the integrity of the show.

Asked whether his firm and the Barry and Enright organization had not made every effort to deceive NBC, Davis replied:

"I would have to say yes. We did not make any great effort to deceive them, but we did not enlighten them."

Given Answers

He said he has no reason to believe that NBC at any time was aware the "Twenty-One" program was fixed. Davis was asked about testimony yesterday by Herbert Stempel, a former "Twenty-One" contestant who told of being supplied with questions and answers and of being told when to answer incorrectly.

He said that Stempel was "off base" on some details, but "on the crucial point, whether he was given the answers, what he said was true."

Davis said that during one of the emergency meetings after the show rigging charges were made. His attorney, Slope, advised him "to deny certain things that we knew were true."

"Did he advise you to do this while you were under oath before the grand jury?" Lishman asked.

"I don't recall," Davis replied. He said he did not remember the words "grand jury" being used.

Rep. Steven B. Derounian (R-NY), a subcommittee member, interjected that an attorney who would give a client such advice ought not to be practicing law. He suggested the New York State Bar association look into the matter.

Suspected Others

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) said this was something outside the subcommittee's scope.

Davis also testified that he had "suspicions" about other quiz shows but did not identify them. He said it was not generally known in the show business that programs were "fixed," but it was "probably believed."

Before today's hearing began, Harris said Daniel Enright, co-owner of "Twenty-One" and Albert Freedman, the show's producer, will be heard tonight behind closed doors.

Enright asked that his testimony be taken in secret. Harris has indicated that some of the testimony may be made public later.

Called as the windup witness on "Twenty-One" was Richard Jackson, a former contestant who is said to have told a New York grand jury the show was crooked. Jackson is an organizer for the International Ladies Garment Workers union.

The subcommittee then planned to turn its spotlight on another TV quiz—"Dotto," the first of the shows to collapse under fraud charges. This brought a chain of events that started to an end the era of huge money prizes and strained, sweating faces peering out of isolation booths.

Audience Amused

The committee opened its rerun spectacular yesterday in an ornate caucus room. The expectant audience guffawed repeatedly as films of long gone "Twenty-one" shows were run off on a screen, complete with commercials.

At one point in the screenings, Master of Ceremonies Jack Barry remarked, "There must be a moral here some place—I don't know what it is." The crowd roared.

The story of the double-cross was unfolded by James Snodgrass, a 37-year-old New York artist. He testified that he brought "Twenty-one's" producers to the verge of panic by giving the correct answer to a question he said they told him to miss.

When the show ended, Snodgrass said, Producer Freedman "came to my dressing room and said I had ruined him." Snodgrass wound up with a comparatively meager $4,000.

Echoing testimony by Herbert Stempel, another former contestant, Snodgrass said he too, had been supplied in advance with questions and answers and even coached on dress, mannerisms and gestures.

Snodgrass said Freedman "suggested that I have my teeth cleaned and that I wear an off-white shirt."

The double-cross came, Snodgrass said, when Freedman man instructed him to miss a question and thus lose a month-long running contest with Hank Bloomgarden, also of New York.

"What made you balk?" asked Lishman. Snodgrass replied:

"Maybe it was a hope deep inside that everything would work out fair and square. Also, I knew the answer. I had been told the answers."

Snodgrass testified that Freedman "told me there would be a series of ties between me and Mr. Bloomgarden to build popularity of the show. I also was told Mr. Bloomgarden knew of this and it was agreeable to him."

Bloomgarden has denied any knowledge of the program being rigged.

TV Auction on Surplus Items Worth $3 Million

New York —(AP)— Nearly $3 million worth of surplus government property went on sale today in a huge television auction.

Buyers tuned in to closed TV circuits in six cities to bid for property over a 2-way radio hookup to auctioneers at the Philadelphia naval shipyard; the Shelby, Ohio, air force depot; and the Granite City, Ill., army engineer depot.

The TV circuit connected buying rooms here and in Philadelphia, Chicago, Boston, St. Louis and Columbus, Ohio, to show on giant screens the items on sale.

Bidders had white cards with identification numbers to flash when something they liked showed up. Items ranged from diesel engines, cranes and goggles, to snowshoes and jackets from all branches of the service.

The project, arranged by Teleprompter corporation of New York city, required three camera mobile units at each of the selling points and large screen projectors and theater size screens at each viewing hall. Two hundred technical workers and 3,500 miles of microwave and coaxial cable were required.

The auction—the first such ever tried by the defense department—was advertised in newspapers weeks ago. Catalogues were sent out to about 9,000 persons who responded.

Atomic Arms May Return to France

Omaha —(AP)—The French air force chief of staff predicts U. S. Air force planes with their nuclear weapons will be permitted to return to their former bases in France.

Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, arriving at Strategic Air Command headquarters Tuesday night, hinted a compromise is being worked out between his government and the United States.

Last spring French President De Gaulle told the United States it could not store nuclear weapons in France unless American nuclear secrets were shared with his government. The air force is withdrawing some 250 aircraft from France as a result.

But negotiations are now in progress between the two governments and the dispute "most certainly will be resolved," said Gen. Jouhaud.

Cheesy Suit Started on Salad Name

San Francisco —(AP)— Folks who ought to know say that Trader Vic's salad dressing is cheesy—but it isn't Roquefort.

Claiming its reputation for the zesty cheese is being harmed, the French community of Roquefort is suing the restaurant in federal district court here.

Trader Vic's uses bleu cheese in dressing and calls it Roquefort, the a roused Frenchmen say. They asked damages and a court injunction to stop the restaurant from using the name.

The suit, filed by the little town, the manufacturer and the exporter, declares real Roquefort must be made from ewe's milk—not cow's—and matured in special caves near Roquefort where natural conditions create the distinctive flavor.

Jim Haver, a Trader Vic's employee, asked: "Who ever heard of Roquefort in Roquefort dressing, anyway?"

"The only kind of Roquefort dressing I've ever heard of is made with bleu cheese, from Oregon or California."

"It's the best there is—even the French should know that."

Counties Operating Costs Up $15 Million

Madison —(AP)— The cost of operating Wisconsin counties in 1958 amounted to $218,840,682, about $15 million more than the cost in 1957, the Public Expenditure survey said Tuesday. Capital outlay in 1958 was $42,161,936, about the same as in 1957.

Information Center Provides Material On Gov. Rockefeller

New York —(AP)— Backers of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination have opened a "citizens' information center" at the Belmont Plaza hotel.

The center, opened yesterday, will provide material to other groups also working for his nomination.

Alexander Halpern, New York City and White Plains, N.Y., attorney, announced the opening of the center. He worked as a volunteer for Rockefeller's election as governor last year.

Richard Amper, the governor's press secretary, said "The governor's position is that he has neither approved nor disapproved" the move.

Amper said Rockefeller "has not urged or authorized any one to campaign in his

Bookmaker Gets Prison Term

Los Angeles —(AP)— Former New York bookmaker Harry Gross has been sentenced to one to 10 years in prison for the gunshot death of his wife's grandfather.

Gross pleaded guilty Tuesday to manslaughter in the fatal wounding of Harry Black, 84, during an argument over a $2,000 loan he made to Gross. Gross maintained the firearm was discharged accidentally.

Grand theft charges against Gross, by two men who alleged he bilked them of $27,000 in a cafe purchase plan, were placed off calendar. A previous trial of this case resulted in jury disagreement.

59 Known Carriers Of TB at Large on Philadelphia Streets

Philadelphia —(AP)— Fifty-nine known carriers of tuberculosis are at large, probably roaming the city's streets.

The 59 are among 171 known cases detected in a series of spot X-rays taken in Philadelphia's skid row area.

Dr. Samuel G. Stein, chief of the health department's tuberculosis section, said yesterday the 59 are dangerous carriers of the lung disease.

A mobile X-ray unit roamed through the skid row area, centered around Eighth and Vine streets, last month. Its crew persuaded men to come in off the streets for the X-rays.

Because of the transient nature of residents in the area, the pictures were developed

Golden Cancels Kansas Tour

Charlotte, N.C. —(AP)— Harry Golden, the author, says that fatigue, not a heart condition has forced him to cancel a speaking tour.

"I overextended myself," said Golden.

The author of the best-selling "Only in America" and "For 2 Cents Plain" was scheduled to appear Thursday night on a panel at the Kansas City Press club's annual griddle show. Club officials reported he telephoned Tuesday that his doctor had forbidden him to make the trip because of a heart palpitation.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Stopped In Minutes

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special) — One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles". It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results—here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance to the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids—without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. It germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observation was continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H. Ask for Preparation H suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Absolute satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Charlie Pauses at 75-Mile Mark To Recount Latest Adventures

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Briarton — If gentle reader does not know the community identified by this dateline, well then, shame on him.

Briarton, formerly a lumbering community and now dedicated to the service of farmers, is surely nudging the start of its second century. Its beginning came with construction of a sawmill built by Joe Becker a shade more than 100 years ago.

This small community of — say — 25 people is singularly placed both in a valley and on a hillside. The hill scoots out of the north; the valley is on an east-west basis.

Briarton, on County Trunk W, is tucked against the north bank of Herman brook, a half-river which seems to do nothing more than meander along and serve as a homestead for frogs and other nice things.

I moved out of Leeman and my job as a grocery clerk too late to churn up any mileage, for I was invited to chat with the children in the Leeman 1-room schoolhouse. Grades 5, 6, 7 and 8, under the guidance of Miss Frances Gerber, did not — thank goodness — pelt this wanderer with bricks, though well they might have.

I lollygagged my way into Navarino at whose theoretical gates I was met by a horde of school children with whom I joshed and chatted. A promise for my return some day was extracted from me by sheer force of numbers and many shrill voices.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert (Webb) Conradt kindly hailed me in for coffee and sandwiches.

Jewel-Like Berries

The road was interesting. The bright red berries of deadly nightshade were like jewels on the vine and even the naughty poison ivy has very real and colorful charm, for it is now a gaudy pink-red.

Along the way, too, bittersweet is trying hard to produce its pretty berries, and a few maples were beautiful enough to sit under and gloat over.

Little Leeman, which I left Tuesday, was a fine adventure for me for within its rather general boundaries there once stood a notable Indian village of some 10,000 Outagamie Indians, which we now call the Fox.

'Lost Village'

The site is often called the "lost village" because it is referred to in the annals of French explorers by its name, Questatinong.

Its first-recorded white visitor was trader Nicholas Perrot, who came to them in 1685.

The Indians had sent word out that if a white man came, they would make soup of his meat.

He came, however, and bared his breast to them, saying, "See my white meat! If you want to make soup of me, I am here. But I think you will find that white meat will taste like the stinking waters of the Bay!"

Mr. Perrot did not become soup, nor did Father Allouez, who visited the tribe in 1670 and stayed long enough to establish the St. Mark mission — long-gone of course.

The site of "the lost city" was a subject of debate for many years, but most scholars now believe that its principal headquarters stands across the road from the tavern and dance hall of Mr. and Mrs. Haze Diemel, in whose family the property has been since before 1860.

Once Very Large

There is some evidence that the Indian tribes had lived in the vicinity for many years and was then one of the largest Indian villages in Wisconsin. From the 27½-acre plot, the Diemel family has collected some superb Indian artifacts.

Leeman's first white settlers came in 1854, long after the Fox tribe had been dispersed from the old site. The first four white men there were from Maine, after which state the township was named. They were David Stinson, George Spoehrs, Paul Greely and John Whitmore. The Greely descendants still live here as do the Spoehrs and the Stinsons. The Leeman family, for which the community is named, came in 1862 and is still here.

En route to Briarton I chatted with mailman Al Van Straten, whose rural mail route covers all of 90 miles a day.

While he delivers the mail, his wife, Cecelia, takes care of their 40-acre farm and their principal crop—cabbage. "She listens to them grow," said Al.

Tiny Helicopter Runs On Automobile Fuel, Passes First Tests

Pinehurst, N.C. — With the Little Zipster helicopter, you can drop down at your favorite filling station, refuel and land in your backyard.

The tiny craft is called by its manufacturer the world's smallest 1-man helicopter designed especially for private and civilian use. It was put through its paces over the weekend at the Pine Needles country club golf course near here.

The helicopter weighs 450 pounds, sells for $2,000 in kit form, and its 60 horsepower engine attains a cruising speed of 60 miles an hour. Designer Igor Bensen of Bensen Aircraft corporation here says its top selling point is its use of automobile rather than aviation fuel.

This, he said, liberates the craft from the airfield and makes it more suitable to suburban living. He visualizes the copter as an eventual substitute for the second car.

Ready-made models are expected to sell for $6,995.

Charles House, the Post-Crescent's roaming columnist, will never be fooled by this mushroom. It's a toadstool and poisonous, he reports. Charlie, who has a vast knowledge of nature's growing things, is walking into autumn and is somewhere beyond Briarton on his way to Suring.

Nikita Praises East Germany

Effort Liquidated Berlin Occupation, He Tells People

Moscow — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev Tuesday praised the communist East German regime for its "indefatigable struggle for the liquidation of the obsolete occupation regime in West Berlin."

Khrushchev and President Klementi Voroshilov sent a message to East German leaders on the occasion of that regime's tenth anniversary.

"The German Democratic Republic's indefatigable struggle for the consolidation of peace in Europe, the liquidation of the obsolete occupation regime in West Berlin and a sharp rise in the workers' prosperity is in line with the vital interests of the whole German people and promotes a solution of the national task of unification of Germany on a peaceful and democratic basis," said the message.

"In the 10 years of its existence the German Democratic Republic has become an indestructible bastion of the German peoples' German militarism and revanchism," Khrushchev is believed to Arson by Boys and Girls No. 2 Cause Of All Fires in U. S.

Washington — Arson by girls and boys has become the No. 2 cause of all fires.

The National Education association said Monday it turned up that information during an extensive study of juvenile delinquency.

Why do the youngsters deliberately set fires?

Malicious mischief or vandalism is their chief motivation, according to the International Association of Arson Investigators, whose report the NEA quoted.

Other motives, in order are: Thrill and excitement, spite or revenge, fraud, and a desire to cover up other crimes such as burglary. The fraud motive appeared only in automobile fires. Mental illness figures in some cases.

Last year was the first time that a significant number of fires were deliberately set by young girls, the study said.

The investigators' report showed that between 45 and 60 per cent of all fires in which arson was a factor were set by youths between the ages of 12 and 18.

Carelessness is the no. 1 cause of fires.

Bumper Apple Crop Means Fair Prices

With a bumper crop of apples this year and favorable prices on the market, this is the year for you to buy and use lots of apples, according to University of Wisconsin horticulturists.

"Find a cool spot in your basement to store your apples or else put them in your refrigerator. If you buy them in a plastic bag, leave them in the bag when you put them in the refrigerator. Then they stay crisp and won't dry out quickly."

When you store apples in your basement, wet down an old blanket or sack and put over the fruit. This lowers the temperature and keeps apples from drying out.

You should try to keep the temperature down around 32 degrees and the relative humidity about 80 to 85 per cent.

Don't try to store apples with vegetables. The waxy coating on the skin of apples absorbs odors.

If you grow your own apples, pick them a little on the green side. Don't wait for them to drop and bruise.

The earlier the apple ripens, the shorter the storage life, and the later the apple ripens, the longer the storage life. This should guide you in selecting the variety of apple that stores the best.

Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I was married five years to a rotter. He used to come home loaded, pull me out of bed, and beat me for no reason. He wouldn't let me go anywhere, not even to the grocery store. I never had a cent to call my own. It was like being in jail.

When our son was 3 I couldn't take it anymore so I got a divorce. Now I'm married to the sweetest guy who ever lived. After what I've been through I can appreciate a man who treats me like a human being. The problem is, Don dislikes my son.

He cringes when the boy tries to climb on his lap. Don brings me little surprises and gifts, but never anything for the child. This is breaking my heart and I don't know what to do. I need help. —G.

DEAR G: Don is uncomfortable around the boy because he identifies him with your first husband. This is tragic and unfair.

Ask your clergyman to talk with Don. If he hears from an outsider how his hostility toward the boy may cripple the marriage, it may help him to be more rational.

DEAR ANN: My 17-year-old daughter, Fay, and I are having a spirited difference in opinion.

Husband Feels Hostile Toward Stepson; It May Ruin Marriage

BY ANN LANDERS

I've permitted her to attend these dances because her girl friend (who is unpopular) wants her to go along. I don't like the idea and have said so.

Since the dances are free and refreshments are cheap, it puts the boys in an enviable position. They go, look over the crop of girls, and decide which one (if any) they'll take home.

I say the whole set-up is cheap and any girl who goes along with it is a ninny. Why should a boy exert himself to phone for a date if he can pick up the girl at a free dance? Who is right? —Irate Mother

DEAR Mother: These affairs, if properly chaperoned, (and I assume they are) help to provide a social outlet for fellows who are broke and girls who don't get many proper phone dates.

For many young people it can be a God-send, but a gal who is "lively, cute and popular" doesn't need this set-up.

DEAR ANN: My husband has an aunt who is 76 years old. She raised him when his mother died so he feels he owes her a lot.

This aunt lives 170 miles away, owns her own cute little bungalow and has a small income on which she manages nicely.

We drive over to see her every two weeks, just for the Baby Needs Chance To Exercise; Move

Have you ever watched a chance. All he needs is a baby smile with his toes? place big enough to wiggle. When a grownup is amused, and a reasonably appreciative audience. A baby crawls with twitch, his eyes crinkle up and alone, but he does a lot more amount of muscular activity involved is not very great. But not so a baby. When he wants to say he likes it, he smiles or laughs out loud, he throws his arms out, he straightens his legs, points his toes and just plain wiggles all over. Every muscle in his little body takes part in his expression of pleasure. The baby uses everything he's got when he doesn't like it, too. He cries and yells, not with his voice alone but with every bit of him.

This is as it should be. A baby must use all his muscles; if he is to grow strong. He will do it if we give him half

If you have a feeding table or a chair use them just for feeding. Don't keep your baby sitting for long at a time. He needs freedom to move about.

During his first year a baby will take care of his own exercise if you just provide the place and a little incentive. In winter he will have to be wrapped up for outdoors, so he will need extra playtime indoors free from the constricting warm clothes. In summer, however, outdoor time should, as much as possible, be a time for vigorous wiggling. Don't just wheel your baby along a street, get him out of the buggy in your own backyard if you're lucky enough to have one—or in the park, or on the roof if you live in the city.

Wiggle Time

Don't keep your baby wrapped up in snug blankets all the time. He needs quite a bit of his waking time free from hampering clothes so that he can make full use of every muscle in his body. As soon as he is awake take him out of his crib and let him wiggle to his heart's content. A blanket on the floor is all right, but a playpen is a lot safer. Never, never, put your baby on a bed or a table top if he is to grow strong. He will do it if we give him half

New Honeymoon Needed

"... I want another child real bad (I have one boy now) but my wife is rather uncertain as to whether she wants another. Have I a chance of convincing her?"

You may think "convince" means nag. Your tiny, cramped, irregularly spaced letters are as sharp as upended tacks. The curved downstroke of "f" stresses the stubborn unyieldingness evident throughout your writing. You may also be too "penny-wise." These are rough words, my friend, but heed them for happiness.

Your wife writes in the letter you enclosed with yours "I have increasingly become more distant toward my husband. It originated with one very bad fault."

That's all she says. Why don't you start by trying to correct the fault that troubles her?

Made-Over Table Success

Mrs. A. C.'s ingenuity at re-modelling an old dining table saved her the money she wanted for a new rug, and she writes to share her idea. A new family room suggested reclaiming the table because it was sturdy and simple in design, but the need was for a coffee table. The height changed when Mrs. C. removed the pedestal and used parts of it for legs.

After she removed the pedestal, Mrs. C. tells us, she took it apart and nailed the upright pieces to the underside of the table top. The sketch shows how she attached cross pieces to the lower pedestal parts to turn them into legs. These new legs were then glued to the table top and the joining was strengthened with screws. A new damage-resistant finish topped off a good job. After complete sanding and the application of filler, Mrs. C. coated the table top with floor varnish.

Mrs. F. D. — "I have a large old house with very tall ceilings, and don't know what to do with the windows. I would like draperies, but don't know how to make them to keep the windows from looking so long. Can you help me?"

Draperies the same color as the walls fade back into the walls and do not emphasize the long lines of the windows. Deep valances cut down height somewhat, and to hang the draperies on the wall wider than the windows themselves adds width to detract from a long, narrow look. Any of these ideas may help you, but in these days of such low ceilings, many wish they were lucky enough to have your problem.

Kum Dubl Club Slates Meeting

The Kum Dubl club of the First Methodist church will meet at 8 p.m. Saturday in the church parlors. Mrs. Eldora Spiegelberg, of the social service department of Appleton, will speak on "Parental Influence on Pre-Adolescence." Refreshments will be served after the meeting and chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Logan.

That's all she says. Why don't you start by trying to correct the fault that troubles her?

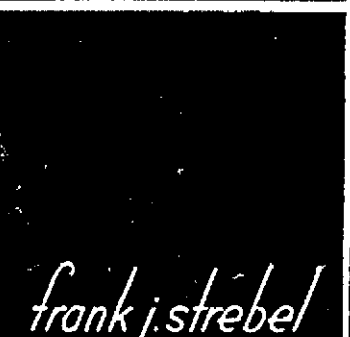

Though your wide letter "f" reveals a strong sex nature, the lack of letter slant shows a lack of sentimentality and consideration. This "I want" attitude of yours needs changing.

Your wife's writing reveals an ultra-sensitive nature. Irritability repels her but she responds to tenderness with a generous heart.

Take her on a new honeymoon and encourage her to buy several new dresses for the trip. (Ouch?) Don't forget to express your love in words too!

Discard your nervous tensions and your fearful outlook on life. Have more faith in the Lord and less apprehension about tomorrow. You will find yourself gaining the self-esteem you now lack, as your personality improves.

Made-Over Table Success

Mrs. A. S. — "I have black and white sectional upholstered furniture and a green chair. Tables are limed oak. What color rug, draperies and wallpaper do you suggest?"

With only one color established to go with the black and white, possibilities are endless. What color do you like with green, yellow, gold, bittersweet, blue? The start you have indicates a paper that isn't too complicated. It might be a texture or one color in an all-over pattern on a white background. Choose plain colored draperies and the rug in a deep bright color in this case for the kind of clear-cut color scheme that goes well with the black and white furniture, but make the one additional color, or two, you choose what you yourself enjoy.

Here's how to rearrange the furniture without hustle or muscle — send for Elizabeth Hillyer's Furniture Arrangement Kit, which shows you how to do it on paper. Included are 126 cut-outs of furniture, instructions on how to make floor plans of your own rooms just as a professional decorator does, tips on good arrangements. Enclose 50 cents, please, with your request to Miss Hillyer, in care of this newspaper. Please allow approximately 3 weeks for delivery.

Slow Diner Sends in This Query

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I would appreciate an answer to the following question that has come up. I am a slow eater and my husband contends that when we have people in to dinner, it is not right for me, as hostess, to keep our guests waiting while I finish eating. He says that when all the guests have finished a course, I should remove the plates even though I myself have not finished what is on my plate. I have never heard of any such rule and would like your opinion on this.

Answer: One usually waits for the slowest eater at table to finish before removing the plates, but if you are very much slower than any of your guests, you as hostess, should not finish what is on your plate

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to use the fold-over cards (informals) for acknowledging my wedding presents and would like to know what name to have printed across the face of them. Should it be Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. John Smith or Mary Smith?

Answer: Your thanks would be better if written on your own note paper. But if you wish to use "informals" they may either be engraved Mr. and Mrs. John Smith or Mrs. John Smith for those thank-you notes which you were not able to write before your wedding.

Dear Mrs. Post: The typical reception after a church wedding in this area takes place in a large room in the recreational wing of the church immediately following the wedding. In this room a large table containing the wedding cake, punch and an arrangement of flowers with candles is set up. My question is this: At a wedding reception of this sort taking place at 3:30 p.m. should the candles be lighted?

Answer: Not unless they are necessary for light.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Complete Hair Care

Do you know the main cause of problem hair? It's too much curling, and not enough care! This does not mean that curling, or even tinting, is harmful to the hair. The harm lies in disregard for the hair's health. Without at least a fifty-fifty emphasis on health, your tresses become lifeless and unmanageable. Trying, then, to keep them curled, colored or just plain groomed is so much waste motion.

If you desire sparkling, compliant and groomed locks, you must give them balanced treatment. A minimal program follows:
Daily — Brush hair 100 strokes, massage scalp for several minutes, pin up curls if need be. Also eat plentifully of fruits and vegetables, the "beauty foods."
Semi-weekly — Treat and cleanse scalp with suitable tonic. (Seek doctor's advice about serious scalp condition.)
Weekly — Using shampoo suited to hair type, wash hair and set it. (Wash oily hair twice weekly.)
As required — Have cuts, styling, permanents, tints, conditioning treatments.

Rule Your Waves
What's your hair problem? You will find a way to overcome it in my 16-page booklet, "RULE YOUR WAVES." Advice includes: beauty treatments for oily, dry, and normal hair; ways to manage unruly locks; how to add color and highlights; tips on cutting, permanents and styling; grooming tricks. Opening lead — C K

When today's hand was played in a recent team match, the East cards were held at two different tables. Both players sacrificed at four spades, but only one of them burned his fingers.

At the first table, East jumped right to four spades. He knew that he was going to sacrifice sooner or later, and he saw no virtue in beating about the bush.

The immediate jump to four spades gave South a problem. He knew, of course, med with exciting, unusual, popular designs to crochet, knit, sew, embroider, quilt, weave — fashions, home furnishings, toys, gifts, bazaar hits. In the book FREE — 3 Laura Wheeler Needlecraft Book is ready NOW! Crampwhat East was doing, but he wasn't satisfied to accept a small penalty. After some inner debate South decided to take the boost to five hearts.

South was unlucky to find the wrong cards in his partner's hand. North had a useless ace and only low cards in clubs. West took two top clubs and led a third club for his partner to ruff. Down one.

Result of Slow Bid
At the other table East's general method of sacrificing allowed an exchange of information between South and North. This was bad for East and good for South.

East bid only two spades at his first turn. South promptly jumped to four hearts, showing his strength. East then woke up to the fact that he had to bid four spades as a sacrifice.

Now, however, South could afford to pass. He had already indicated the nature of his hand and could allow North to make a decision. If North had values in the unbid suits, he could bid on to five hearts; if he had values in spades, he could double.

As it happened, an important part of North's hand was the ace of spades. It was a sure trick on defense but might be useless for offense. For this reason North doubled four spades.

West was down two, for a loss of 300 points. This was, of course, better than allowing South to score a vulnerable game but it was 400 points worse than pushing South overboard at five hearts.

Nelson Vetoes Bill to Boost Truck Weights

Madison — A bill which would boost the top weight for trucks on Wisconsin highways from 68,000 to 73,000 pounds was vetoed by Gov. Gaylord Nelson today.

The governor hinted Saturday he would veto the bill when he made public a U.S. Bureau of Public Roads letter. It said signing the bill would force the bureau to cut off federal "I" system aids to Wisconsin.

"I would therefore favor a revised version of the bill which would eliminate the tolerance provision," he said. The federal weight restrictions are provided in the 1956 Highway Act. The amount of "I" system aid which signing the bill would have cut off was estimated at $18½ million.

Car Under Repair Taken by Thief

Chilton — A thief used poor judgment Tuesday noon when he took a partially dismantled car from the Matt Bankert garage, route 1, Menasha, while the mechanic was away getting parts.

The 1953 model car, owned by Gordon Schnur, route 4, Appleton, was without a water pump and could not travel far without overheating.

The steam vehicle was seen going through Darboy during the afternoon and was found this morning by the garage owner abandoned on a side road off Highway 55 near Little Chicago.

There may be extensive damage to the motor from overheating, he said.

Speck in Eye Should Never be Neglected

There is hardly a person who hasn't at one time or another got something in his eye. The tiniest little speck can cause a lot of discomfort. For the most part nature takes care of bits of foreign matter that fly into the eye. Tears wash out the offending substance. But when it doesn't wash out by itself we must do something about it. Specks which remain in the eye can cause serious trouble. Simple home remedies will work in many cases. The first which almost everyone knows is to take hold of the eyelashes, pull the lid away from the eye and downward. This gives the tears a better chance to wash out the speck. If this doesn't work, try an eye cup, which every home medicine cabinet and every first aid kit should have. It's amazing how few people know how to use this important first aid device. Wash the eye cup before you use it. Fill the cup with plain clear water. It's a good idea to boil and cool the water first. The child tips his head down, opens his eye, and plies the filled eye cup to the eye socket, tips the head back and blinks several times into the cup. If the first washing doesn't remove the speck the procedure can be repeated several times. Often this simple procedure will clear the eye. If the eye still hurts after ample washing you must do more. For many people this is the time you should go to the doctor. However, if your child is cooperative and you are skilled you can take the next step yourself. This is to turn back the lid and remove the speck with a swab. Locate Speck Locate the speck first. Have the child follow your finger with his eye as you move your finger in an arc in front of his eyes. When the eyeball goes over the speck it will hurt and the child can tell you where the hurt is. Have the child look down and keep on looking down. Take hold of the eyelashes, pull the lid down, then turn it back over a matchstick you have laid horizontally across the lid. Look on the under side of the upper lid with a good strong light and if you see a speck remove it with a cotton swab moistened with sterile water. If the pain stops you have been successful. However, if after all these procedures the child still complains you must go to the doctor. Don't ever try to remove a speck from the eyeball yourself. This is a doctor's job. In unskilled hands, real damage to the eye can be done. Time counts in getting a speck out of the eye. Don't just hope it will be better the next day. A speck which has stood through all the above procedures isn't just going to jump out all by itself. If there

Collars Do New Tricks For Sweater

Collars do new tricks in sweaters for campus wear this fall. Among the collar cues rating highest marks with the college crowd are fluffy looped shawl styles, shaggy Raggedy Anns, trim middy squares, king-size cape collars and raccoon - framed hoods that can be worn over the shoulders or pulled over the head. Sweaters are the backbone of every college girl's wardrobe—in textured bulky knits, brushed mohairs, looped knits and fur blends. Worn with color - coordinated skirts, shorts or slacks, they're a campus must. Handsome dimensional tweedy knits, bold harlequin patterns and bright colors enliven the outdoor scene. Softly detailed pullovers are mated with tweed or flannel skirts for classroom wear. Wonderful fuzzy mohairs, deeply scooped and collared, in high colors such as hot pink or curry, make a splash for dress-up occasions. Colorful Busy Bee Prize for Winners of Puzzle Contest

BY CAPPY DICK

Can you supply the two letters of the alphabet that will complete the word square the elves have built in the adjoining picture?

If you can, you are eligible to enter today's puzzle contest in which each of the winners will receive the newest Cappy Dick prize — a Busy Bee.

The Busy Bee is a remarkable device that will provide hours of fun for any boy or girl. It combines action and sound. The bee is made of colorful, transparent plastic. It is a very big bee, having a 5-inch wing spread and a body that is three inches long. It is attached by a special kind of cord to a plastic stick. When you whirl the bee, it sings and the faster you whirl it the louder its buzzing becomes. You can use it indoors or out; in either place it is sure to attract much attention. One Busy Bee will be awarded to each boy or girl who sends in one of the 10 most neatly prepared correct solutions to the puzzle in the picture above.

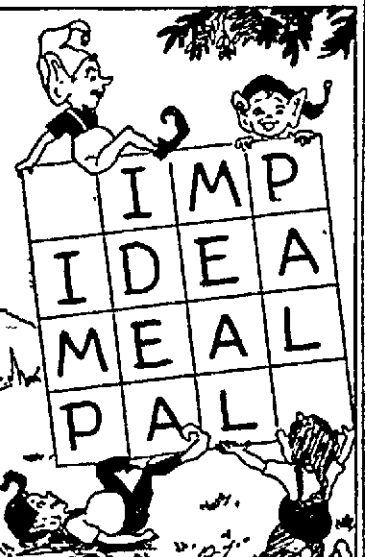

The elves' word square is a snap to complete. If you insert the correct letter in the upper left hand corner, the word across the top of the square will be the same as the word down the left side. It has something to do with walking. If you insert the correct letter in the lower right hand corner, the word across the bottom will be the same as the word down the right side. It has something to do with friendship.

When you have figured out what the correct letters are and have printed them in the blank squares, clip out the picture and paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. With paints or crayons, color it as neatly as you can.

Beneath the picture print your name, age and address, then address your entry to Cappy Dick at the Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day-after tomorrow. The contest judges will examine all entries to find the 10 neatest correct ones. The Busy Bees will be awarded to the boys and girls who sent those entries. Names and addresses of the winners will be published here and their Busy Bees will be sent to them by mail.

Our Children

Be Ready With Advice, But Never Usurp Job

BY ANGELO PATRI

A child's work should be just that, his work, not that of an older more skilled and experienced worker, yet grown people cannot seem to keep their hands off.

Adults cannot seem to remember that this is a beginner in the field as once they were and to accept his work as it is, the expression of his stage of growth, his state of mind-and body and pass on with a word of praise and encouragement.

No worker, young or old, likes having his work taken over, corrected and adjusted to another's taste or method. One's work is the shadow of oneself and when it is taken over by someone else it hurts and a hurt is not conducive to enthusiasm in any direction.

Isn't a child's work to be corrected? Yes. But not when he is in the heat of creation, of painful effort and joyful achievement. The crooked, disproportionate drawing is likely to look perfectly beautiful to its creator. Let it be so. Later, before the next attempt but not too soon after the first achievement, give the child a lesson on the essential point and if he asks help give it to him without touching his work.

The very young beginners are unconscious of the correct or the incorrect. They draw or model blithely regardless of the physical result for the image in their minds is all there is for them. They see it there on the paper or the table and call it good. Let them. As they grow in experience and skill they begin to look critically at their work and even ask questions about its correctness.

Wise Help A second grader was struggling with a water color of a red radish that was crowned with a green top. He used too much water, too much of everything and the result was a big blob of muddy colored water.

He wiped his wet hands by rubbing them on his pants and as the teacher bent over his work he asked her anxiously, "Is it wrong?" "I wouldn't say so. Maybe you used more water than you needed. See. I'll do one on this paper and you watch."

"O. Maybe I did." and he attacked another sheet, not too successfully, but still enthusiastically.

If a teacher can advise, correct, help, and still leave the beginner feeling fit, all is well. If he takes over and puts his self on that bit of work the child surrenders all joy in it.

Art Heritage Shared By Manitowoc Couple

ROY F. VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Manitowoc — Mrs. Junias H. Pleuss calls herself a dauber. She says her husband is an artist.

Together the two have shaped a rich heritage of art and workmanship in their home at 3300 Lindbergh drive in this growing lake port community of 30,000.

Pleuss studied business and never took extensive courses in art. Now, after 50 years of painting and sculpture, he is studying ceramics at the local vocational school.

Brilliant Painter ... His wife's daubings are manifest in her brilliant and effective designs of leaves, feathers and scenes on miniatures, knick knacks and household items.

Pleuss, who sells real estate and insurance, loves building and working with his hands. He finds a joy in creating, he says. Several downtown Manitowoc business establishments show his sense of taste and design.

He made a brewery into a modern furniture store, created what is now the youth center, made a tavern into a business executive's office and a creamery into an ultra-modern insurance office.

Used Own Ideas ... "I hired an architect," Pleuss said, "then when I had the okay went ahead on my own ideas without his help." In the old creamery on York street, offices are designed for ease and comfort. Each room has a different theme with oil and watercolor paintings done by Pleuss. Modern lighting and use of paneling to gain ultimate light and contrast are effective.

A real estate office on Jay street has rows of executive offices each finished according to the occupant's desire by Pleuss. A main conference room has the appearance of a timber-hewn castle den of old. A rustic woods scene beyond the heavy steel, hinged door completes the atmosphere.

"Nowhere since Hong Kong have I seen such a place of art and beauty as the Pleuss home," an Appleton man said after seeing their residence high above the Manitowoc river.

Put Selves in Home ... "We've put ourselves in our home," Mrs. Pleuss said. One cannot help but recognize the Pleuss residence spreading over some four acres. The home is designed with a Spanish motif. The back yard is arranged in a series of formal gardens which bloom all season. Hedges are trimmed to look like animals of the forest and jungle. Along one side of the lot a baby bear climbs a barren tree trunk. On the other end an Indian chief stands stiffly against a backdrop of trees.

Each of these figures was molded out of cement by Pleuss and painted to give them life-like quality. He constructed an entry way through his tree-filled yard to the river below for youngsters in the neighborhood. The well-worn path and many bicycles often found there are evidence of its use. On the edge of the yard a mother, father and child sculptured and almost lifelike, seem to be returning from a day along the river.

Within the Pleuss home a new world opens. It is rich in Mediterranean influence, studded with Spanish and French provincial wares.

Ideas From Travel ... Pleuss designed his house in 1936, had it built and moved in in 1937. He and his wife have been adding to it since. Decorations and furniture come from some 11 countries the Pleusses visited.

"We got our ideas from our travels," Mrs. Pleuss said. "But we never bought just to buy. If the item fitted in with what we wanted, we bought it," she added.

"We never took inventory of the things we have nor considered their value," the Pleusses agreed. "Their value has been in our enjoyment in creating them." They don't sell their art work. Much of it is given away as gifts or donations. Pleuss now has several pieces of his sculpture on exhibit at the Manitowoc civic center art show.

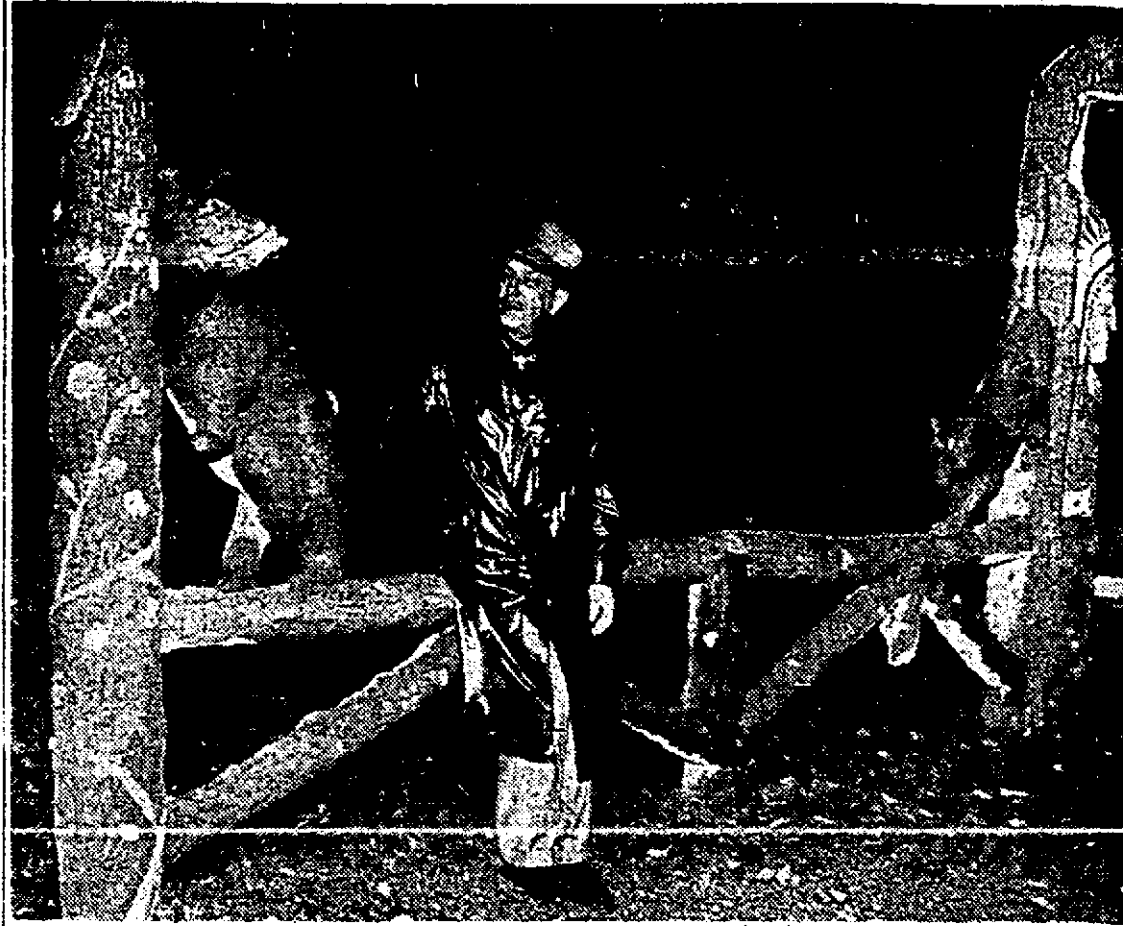

Some of the pieces in the Pleuss home are 200 to 300 years old. One man estimated value of the furnishings and antiques at more than $100,000.

Persian Rugs ... Each room in the house is covered with an imported Persian rug. The dining room is a replica of a Spanish dining room. A side table was made by Mrs. Pleuss out of New Orleans French porch rail.

Mrs. Pleuss has her workshop on the second floor overlooking the yard and street. She has tiny dolls, plates, and various gift items stored there.

Her husband's workshop is like no other room in the house. It reflects his love of the outdoors. The basement is a replica of an early American log cabin, complete with field stone fireplace, flint lock rifle and chinked logs. Here Pleuss paints. He recently completed a water color of a sketch he made 50 years ago. From his workshop paintings go throughout the house, to offices and friends.

With all its furnishings the Pleuss home is pleasingly

A Bear Cub Scrambles Up a tree on a fence at the Junias H. Pleuss home, 3300 Lindbergh drive, Manitowoc. The rustic fence, and figures were molded from cement by Pleuss. Below, Pleuss puts finishing touches to a north woods oil scene in his rustic log cabin-designed basement workshop.

Virginia Group Seeks Education Of All Children

Richmond, Va. — The Virginia Congress of Parents and Teachers will place before the state legislature a resolution calling for the continued public education of all children.

The resolution, included in the group's 1958-60 legislative program, was approved by 20 of the 24 districts in the congress.

Public schools are shut down in Farmville and adjoining Prince Edward county in southside Virginia. They were closed by county authorities rather than submit to federal court orders calling for the end of segregation in the classrooms.

Virginia has a law permitting localities to shut down schools if they desire rather than integrate them.

A private segregated school system is operating for the approximately 1,500 white students in Prince Edward. There has been no provision made for the county's 1,700 Negro students, although a handful attend the high school division of a Negro college in North Carolina.

Private segregated schools also are operating in Charlottesville seat of the University of Virginia, and at Front Royal in northern Virginia. Public schools there are integrated, however.

2 Killed When Fuel Explodes

Kenvil, N.J. — A half ton of experimental rocket propellant exploded at the Hercules Powder company plant Monday, killing two men and injuring five others. The unexplained blast shook buildings 15 miles away, wrecked a concrete-lined mixing bunker and sent flaming debris spinning for hundreds of feet.

The two killed had been mixing the propellant by remote control in the bunker when the mixers exploded. Hercules officials say they won't be able to give the cause until a complete investigation is made.

Albert R. Ely, works manager, declined to say what sort of propellant exploded but added Hercules had been making it for about a year.

Killed by the blast were Vincent Preziosi, about 25, of Dover, N.J., and William K. Brown, 21, of Netcong, N.J., a native of Ishpeming, Mich. The five others were not seriously hurt. One of them was only 20 feet from the explosion and Ely said "he was pretty lucky to escape." The bunker was completely flattened and debris from it covered Preziosi and Brown.

Itch of Piles Get Relief Now

Millions of sufferers in the last 40 years have found a way to fast relief from itching and smarting of piles. They use a delightful cooling soothing astringent formula—Peterson's Ointment. No wonder one sufferer writes, "The itching and smarting were relieved, and I slept all night. Peterson's Ointment is marvelous." See it, all drugists. Be delighted or money back.

Escapee From Mental Hospital Shot by Police

Stayton, Ore. — Frank Skott, 33, an escapee from a Wisconsin mental institution, died Monday of the gunshot wounds suffered in a fight with police.

Authorities said Skott, of Middleton, Wis., escaped from Mendota State hospital Sept. 3.

Skott was wounded fatally Sunday after policeman Ron Frey was disarmed by a man he had attempted to arrest for vagrancy. Frey lost the gun but was released unharmed.

Frey and two other policemen then searched for the gunman and found him on a street in a residential neighborhood. Police Chief Everett Norflett said he ordered Skott to drop the gun but he refused and police fired.

Poor Circulation Has Part In Causing Angina Pains

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain about angina—is it caused by poor circulation?—R.B."

In a sense, angina pains are caused by poor circulation. There is, however, a distinction which you should understand.

"Poor circulation" isn't Dr. Molner necessarily something that affects all parts of the body in the same way. The pipes to your kitchen sink don't necessarily become clogged at the same time the bathroom plumbing becomes troublesome. It's the same with circulation.

Wards Off Pains
Angina pectoris, those periodic and painful cramps of the heart (with pain often radiating into the shoulder and arm) are a sign that the heart muscle is the victim of inadequate circulation.

Keep this in mind: The heart pumps blood to all of the body, including the heart muscle.

Nitroglycerin tablets are, at this moment, the best means we know of giving a little boost to the circulation to the heart, to ease or ward off these angina pains.

Spasm of Muscle
Your leg cramps may, or may not, be related to the angina. The angina itself simply means that the heart muscle is not getting enough circulation. This can be because of some general fault in the heart, or it can be that the arteries leading to the heart muscle have become constricted.

Why Is the pain there?
When a muscle—any muscle, whether the heart muscle, or muscle in the arm, foot or anywhere else—is deprived of a plentiful supply of blood, it is required to keep working anyway, it protests by going into a spasm. This is what happens in a case of angina. For, remember, the heart muscle has to keep on working. Fortunately, it is one of the strongest muscles in the body.

Thus, if your foot cramps (or your leg cramps) from lack of plentiful circulation, you give it a rest, and presently it returns to normal.

You can't let the heart rest completely, but by sitting quietly, you can reduce the amount of work required of it. You can, in addition, use the nitroglycerin tablets your doctor prescribes.

As you read my leaflet on foot and leg cramps, you'll see that the underlying principle is very similar. You'll also see that nitroglycerin tablets are not the answer to leg cramps, but are an excellent aid for angina. Your first problem is to learn to get along with the angina problem. The leg cramps are secondary.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! To learn how, write to me in care of

Grand Chute Gets $3,000 Bill

State Asks Funds For Land Under Forest Crop Law

An investigation is being made by the Grand Chute town board into a request from the state conservation department for $3,000 in back taxes on land under the forest crop law.

Last June 12 the land was taken from under forest crop classification. It is a 360-acre area owned by Green Top, Inc.

In 1948, former assessor Robert Boettcher began to assess the land because owners began to clear and farm it. Land under crop-law provisions cannot be tilled. The letter requesting back taxes figured taxes from 1933 when the land originally was put under forest crop law.

The town board will hold the matter until it better understands the situation and reasons for the bill dating back to 1933, Lecker said. Grand Chute Attorney Donald Herring is investigating.

Tells Regulations
During the town meeting Tuesday night, Constable Russell Neubert brought town firearm regulations to the attention of the board members. He said no one under 21 can have in his possession a sling shot, bow and arrow, gun or pistol except during hunting season. Using air rifles is banned, he added.

Neubert requested an ordinance to protect persons in residential sections of the town from hunters in nearby fields. The proposal is under study.

Bids are being sought for 6,000 gallons of fuel oil to heat the town hall. Sealed bids will be opened Nov. 3.

Owner Tells How He'll Use Former Store

What will become of the former Austin Grocery store, at the northwest corner of Prospect avenue and Mason street, has been described to the city by the new owner, Erik Madisen, Jr.

A rumor has been circulating, Madisen said, that he intends to operate a printing shop in the building, now being remodeled under terms of a city building permit.

What actually will happen, he explained in a letter to the city council, is that he will live in part of the building, and the remodeled part will be used for editorial offices of the two magazines he edits, "Park Maintenance" and "The Golf Course Reporter."

Only his 3½-man editorial staff will work in the building; printing and mailing will be conducted elsewhere in the city. Advertising salesmen will operate out of Chicago offices, he said.

One neighbor, John McHugh, conferred with city officials last week, protesting the use of the property, in residential zone, for business zone purposes. It was explained that long-standing city ordinances permit professional people to operate their businesses from their homes.

Laird to Head Anti-Submarine Technique Probe

Washington — Rep. Melvin R. Laird, Marshfield Republican, has been appointed chairman of a group of congressmen to inspect progress in our anti-submarine warfare activities, it was announced today by Rep. George H. Mahon, (Democrat, Texas).

A top-ranking member of the house appropriations committee, Congressman Mahon said that although it was "unusual" for a Democrat to appoint a Republican the chairman of an investigation committee, he was making an exception in the Laird appointment because of the congressman's "ability and interest in military functions."

Although no definite date has been set for the trip, Laird and his group plan to visit submarine bases in New London, Conn.; San Diego, Calif., and Key West, Fla. Laird already has inspected "homing torpedoes" at the Norfolk, Va., Naval base.

The Wisconsin congressman also plans to inspect our chemical and biological warfare headquarters at Frederick, Md.

2 Young Men Die in Crash

Milwaukee — The deaths of two young mechanics in a car-truck crash have raised Wisconsin's 1959 highway toll to 625, compared with 617 on this day last year.

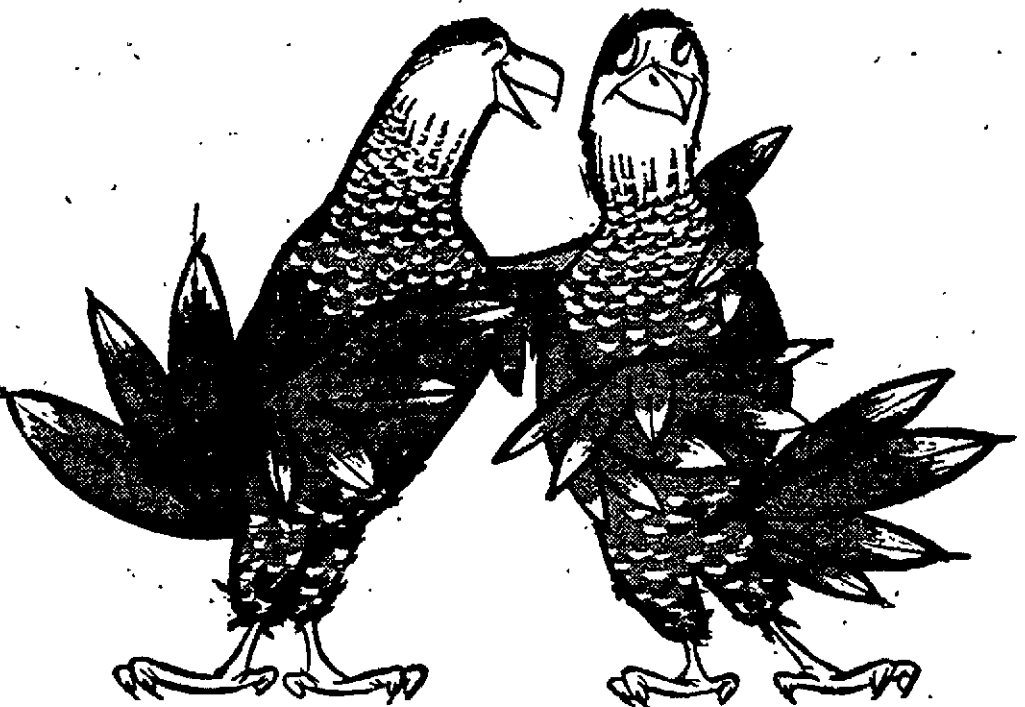

Killed in a crash on rain-slick Highways 12 and 18 east of Madison Tuesday were Donald Bender, 21, Madison, and Burleigh Zickert, 17, route 1, Deerfield. Both worked for an auto body shop in Madison.

Dane county authorities said the car in which they were riding swerved into the path of an oncoming pick-up truck.

Clintonville GI Hurt in Fall

Princeton, Mass. — Specialist Orland R. Jannusch, 20, of Clintonville, Wis., attached to Fort Devens suffered multiple injuries Tuesday in a 35-foot fall during training exercises at Redemption Rock.

Authorities said he was making a suspension traverse down a 150-foot cliff when he fell to the rocky floor.

Lawrence Says
Disarmament

Russian Plan
Infiltration of Weak Governments
Long Range Idea
BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Some of the things that have happened here as an aftermath to the Khushchev visit seem fantastic. The other day many of the officials waited anxiously for Nikita Khrushchev to make a certain announcement after his return to Moscow. He had agreed informally with President Eisenhower to say to the press that there would be no "time limit" on the negotiations about west Berlin. For some unexplained reason, Mr. Khrushchev wasn't willing to put this into the formal communique but he did agree to an arrangement whereby President Eisenhower would tell it first to his own press conference the next day, and then the Soviet premier would announce the same thing to a press conference in Moscow. For several hours there was discussion inside the state department and elsewhere in the government as to whether Khrushchev would keep his word. What Mr. Khrushchev said publicly to a Moscow press conference isn't of very great significance. All he announced was that there would be "no time limit on the negotiations," but that they must "not be prolonged indefinitely." Play On Words He already had told the press in Washington that he didn't see any other way out but for the Soviet government to sign a peace treaty with "the two German states." This means no reunification of Germany. Since west Berlin would be regarded by the Soviets as a part of the east German republic, the initiative would be placed squarely upon the western allies to decide whether they would enforce their rights in Berlin. In substance, the situation hasn't moved off dead center at all. There has been just a play on words. Many high officials of our own government who have by no means been fooled by the Soviet premier have had discussions among themselves as to just what was the real purpose of his visit to America, and what he really meant by his proposals for disarmament and the like. To many of them, there seems no question about the fact that the Soviet government has decided that it needs a period of rest and relief from the heavy burden of armament. Infiltration A dedicated communist, Khrushchev is convinced that communism is eventually going to be victorious throughout the world. He doesn't feel that it is necessary to conquer by force of arms, because infiltration is a much easier process. There isn't much doubt here about the extent to which the Soviet government would agree to disarm. It can't afford to agree to complete disarmament. It needs armies for its own undisclosed purposes. It has a military clique that is not going to take any chances on what the eastern European satellite countries might do. This military apparatus is necessary not only for internal peace, but to keep a dominant position for the Soviets on the continent of Europe. Time means nothing to the Soviet leaders. They would just as soon carry on a program that takes 20 years to accomplish as one that has to come to a climax in the next year or two. The reason is that the communists are convinced that the western countries will weary of the negotiations and will make concessions after concession in the interest of "easing tensions." Many Americans are urging that the United States "must not let down its guard," but already because of the mere discussion of disarmament there is widespread interest in how much money can be saved by reducing military appropriations. The Soviets are well aware of what all

Five Plats Recommended To Councilmen

Future Extension Of County Trunk A Provided for

Five tentative and final plats will be recommended by the planning commission for city council approval tonight. They are:

The final Sunny Acres plat, comprising 157 lots at the southeast corner of Calumet street and Kernan avenue. The plat provides a 40-foot right-of-way along the south half of Calumet street and 66-foot right-of-ways for Kernan avenue and Telulah avenue. Plat owner is the Fountain Development company, Inc.

The final Myrel Olson plat, comprising nine lots on the west side of Lyndale drive, south of Spencer street to Second street. The plat provides 40 feet for half the right-of-way for eventual extension of County Trunk A through the area.

Commercial Lots
The tentative George Paltzer plat, comprising 18 commercial lots at the northwest corner of Highways 41 and 10. There are no building plans, the commission was told. Approval was sought by Outagamie county before the property is rezoned from agricultural district.

The tentative Eldon A. Schultz plat, comprising 44 lots immediately north of Schultz's trailer park on S. Oneida street at Midway road. The tavern which stands on the property will be razed shortly, Schultz told the commission. There was no discussion of Schultz's request for approval of his trailer

Women's Groups Aid Dr. Dooley's Cause; Sell Tickets to Two Talks

Two Appleton women's groups interested in aiding Dr. Thomas A. Dooley III in his struggle to benefit Red-threatened Laos will sell tickets this week for Dr. Dooley's two talks Oct. 16.

The groups are King's Daughters and the Outagamie County Medical auxiliary. King's Daughters circles will handle sales at the J. C. Penney and H. C. Prange stores and at the First National and Appleton State banks between 1 and 9 p.m. Friday.

The medical auxiliary will sell tickets at Valley Fair Shopping center between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday. Dr. Dooley will speak at a $10-a-plate luncheon at noon and at Lawrence chapel at 8:30 p.m. Oct. 16, describing his experiences as a pioneer doctor who established two hospitals in primitive Laos.

tickets are tax free and may be deducted for income tax purposes, including $8.50 for the luncheon.

While in Appleton, Dr. Dooley will renew an old acquaintance with an Appleton native whom he last saw when he was taken from Biendienphu when it fell to the communists.

The acquaintance is Robert N. Hubbell, dean of men at Lawrence college. Hubbell was aboard the Diachenko APD 123, sister ship of the one which evacuated Dooley. The two men met in Japan and spent an evening discussing Dooley's experiences.

Said Hubbell, "Dr. Tom is at once a great and a dynamic person. He has found his plot of ground where he feels the Lord wants him to work

Midwest Dairy Co-op Seen

R. G. Lewis Says He Sees It in Very Near Future

Eau Claire —(AP)—A Wisconsin agriculture authority has predicted organization of a Midwest dairy cooperative in the "very near future."

Robert G. Lewis, agricultural coordinator in the governor's office, told the 16th annual meeting of the Wisconsin association of Cooperatives "our dairy cooperative leaders have made more progress toward this goal in the past 12 months than in the preceding 12 years."

"I am optimistic enough to believe that in the very near future the dreams of a whole generation of dairy farmers will be realized and they will control a centralized marketing organization able to compete with giants in the dairy field," Lewis said.

Jerry Bamke of Eland was elected chairman of the association's youth program.

De Gaulle's Plan for Algerian Vote For Future Deserves to Succeed

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

Washington—On Sept. 16 Mr. K. had just arrived in Washington and it was impossible for most of us to pay serious attention to anything else. Yet on that date Gen. de Gaulle made public his policy and plan for dealing with the Algerian question. We now can pay serious attention to what he said, and it is quite evident that it will be long remembered.

He took the decisive step without which there could be no hope of putting an end to the bitter and bloody civil war. He accepted the principle of self-determination by an open and equal election. The acceptance of this principle is only the first step towards a satisfactory solution of the problem. But without that first step no solution was possible.

In these elections the Algerians will have three choices. They can secede and set up as an independent state. They can vote to become an integral part of metropolitan France. Or they can choose autonomy by departments, more or less in the manner of the Swiss cantons, within the economic, financial and political structure of the recently formed French community. This community now consists of France itself and 12 republics in Africa and Madagascar.

Wants Third Choice

It is this third choice that Gen. de Gaulle hopes the Algerians will make. But the Algerians are free to choose either of the other two options. And it is freedom to choose independence which has transformed radically the Algerian question. The Algerians do not have to fight a war of independence. If independence is what they want, they can have it by their own free vote and by a ratifying vote by the French people.

As long as the option of independence did not exist, it was put to a vote in the United States to give public support to the Algerian policy of the preceding French governments. The best we could do, desiring not to offend the French government and French opinion, was to abstain when the issue was put to a vote in the United Nations.

This situation has been altered completely by Gen. de Gaulle's offer of self-determination. From now on our position is bound to be, while we avoid meddling, to encourage working out the program he has proposed, and to use what influence we may have to support the Arabs, who are working for a policy of moderation and conciliation.

U.S. Choice Similar

It would not be proper for the United States to give official support to any of the three options on which the Algerians will vote. But Americans can privately say what they are sure to think: that the best future lies in the third option — autonomy within the French community. It is best for the European settlers in Algeria, for the Moslem masses, for the neighbors of Algeria in Tunisia and Morocco, for the stability and prosperity of North Africa and of the western Mediterranean. Algeria alone does not have the resources and technology to provide a decent future for its population. But the French community does have the resources and the technology.

It is significant that the crit-

Man Who Maintained Two Households Sues Wife for Divorce

Madison—A 34-year-old draftsman who maintained households in Madison and Milwaukee has sued his wife for divorce.

Jack Gasdorf, who spent a year in prison after his family mixup was uncovered following a 1958 apartment fire, charged his wife with cruel and inhuman treatment.

Gasdorf served a year in prison on an adultery charge. He pleaded guilty to adultery with Miss Lucille Grady, 21, formerly of Antigo, with whom he lived in Milwaukee. Their two sons died in a fire in January of 1958.

His wife, Verna, who lived in Madison, has received temporary custody of their four minor children and an order that stipulates she and her husband live apart. The couple was married in Madison in 1946.

Quiet Man Leaves Boston $17 Million

Boston —A bachelor who lived so quietly that few people knew he was wealthy has left $17 million to charity.

The bequest was by Albert Stone, Jr., 82, who died May 10.

The Boston Safe Deposit and Trust company disclosed Monday night Stone left $17 million, mostly in common stocks to the permanent charity fund, nearly doubling the fund's principal.

The trust company, serving as trustee, said $100,000 is being assigned immediately to help combat Boston's juvenile delinquency.

William Wolbach, a member of the fund committee, said "we honestly don't know what he (Stone) did. We know he was interested in charity for many years and gave anonymously to worthy causes."

Stone's only living relative is Sidney Stone of Wayland, a cousin.

He said the philanthropist was in the shoe business as a jobber at the turn of the century. He sold the firm in 1910 and joined his grandfather and other relatives in the real estate business.

Left Money

Wolbach said he understood Stone was left several million dollars by his father and that the family had textile interests. He added:

"During his lifetime Mr. Stone did not like headlines or ostentation. He was a friendly, gracious and warm-

Kuehn Plans to Enter GOP Race

Milwaukee —Former state Republican Chairman Philip G. Kuehn said Monday night he'll be a candidate for governor in 1960 if he can "surmount several business problems so that I can devote adequate time to a campaign."

Kuehn said that the plans of former Rep. Glenn R. Davis of Waukesha, and former man. His life was a pattern of simple dignity." Bay State road neighbors recall seeing him leave his 3-story brick house for an occasional afternoon walk. He had a housekeeper and a caretaker.

Wolbach said Stone long had been interested in making a worthwhile contribution to the community.

Gov. Vernon Thomson would not be a factor in his deciding whether he would seek the office.

Davis and Thomson both are regarded as likely gubernatorial candidates in GOP circles.

"If I can't get free to start campaigning by January I won't want to run," Kuehn said, "because it wouldn't be fair to me or the party to do the job in a half-baked manner."

Kuehn, who is 39-years-old, also told a local Republican club meeting Wisconsin must modify its real estate and personal property taxes if it wants to encourage industrial expansion. Kuehn said, however, that he was opposed to a sales tax if it is just piled on top of existing taxes.

Two Rezoning Pleas Recommended by City Planning Commission

Two requests for rezoning are recommended by the planning commission for city council approval tonight.

Involved are: A parcel on the southwest corner of Highway 41 and Ullman street where Wisconsin Michigan Power company wants to erect a neighborhood power sub-station.

A lot at the northeast corner of Charlotte street and Randall avenue where Mrs. Louis Reetz wants a multiple family dwelling.

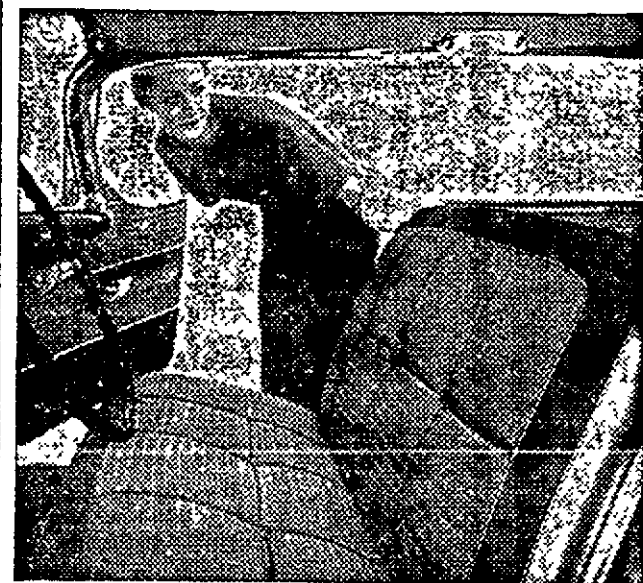

There were no protests to either proposal. If approved, public hearings will be called before ordinance amendments are drafted and put through the council.

Doors that open wider—easier to get in and out. Family-size interior. Seats that are higher, more deeply cushioned, and repositioned to provide more comfort for feet and legs. Separate rear seat heat control. Careful comparisons indicate today's Buick, with its extensive use of insulation and torque-tube drive is perhaps the quietest running, smoothest riding car in America. Buick's modern program of quality control comes to a peak in the Turbine Drive Buick '60.

NEW INTERIOR DECOR AND CONVENIENCE

An entirely new "Mirromatic" instrument panel. Fastest "information center" yet devised, it lets the driver see speed, gas gauge, and other necessary readings at a glance in a mirror he glits to suit his own eye level. And a new exclusive safety option—the Twilight Sentinel—that turns headlights on automatically at sunset... off automatically at sunrise. All-new colors and fabrics. Richer appointments such as wall-to-wall carpet in Electra, Invicta, and LeSabre.

*At slight extra cost.

OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE AND ECONOMY

2. Buick's Exclusive Air-Flo Aluminum Drum Brakes—found on no other American car. Fin-cooled drums front and rear for faster cooling. Fast cooling means safer stopping, longer brake life. Slotted wheels pass a current of air from under the car constantly over the brakes for added cooling efficiency. (Wheels are 15" size which gives you up to 1/3 more tire life.)

3. Buick's exclusive Wildcat Engines give high efficiency with high economy. (An optional new LeSabre Engine gives more miles per gasoline dollar because it is designed to provide Buick performance on lower cost regular grade fuel.)

POST CRESCENT News of the Twin Cities Neenah - Menasha

Menasha Takes in Grove Subdivision

Largest Annexation in History;
261-Lot Plat Being Readied

Menasha — The city made its largest growth Tuesday, when the council approved annexation of the 261-lot parcel of the land in the estate of the late Alva Grove.

The 60-acre parcel is the culmination of six months of work by the estate, city planning commission and council. Still to be completed is an approved plat of the area, which lies generally north and west of the Clovis-Grove school on Ninth street.

The plat is being prepared by McMahon Engineering company. The area will be developed by thirds, beginning at Ninth street and working north. It will lie in the Fourth ward.

According to city records, the addition, effective on its passage, is the largest in history and the most significant addition in about 30 years.

Third ward Ald. Lee Rather decreed what he termed "laxity in procedure" in prosecuting public works projects in the city, such as street, curb-gutter and sidewalk jobs.

Saying he had been pushing for a sidewalk on Lopas street for months, he asked for the installation this year.

City Atty. William R. Giese advised him the council must approve the job first by resolution, then notice must be given the landowner. This would take about five weeks.

When Second ward Ald. Gordon Schanke asked for a progress report on such jobs, Rather countered that the city engineer should "Concentrate on getting the jobs done, not with reports."

Fourth Ward Ald. Edward Stinski asked, as he did six weeks ago, for sidewalk installation in the Ninth and State streets area.

City Engineer M. J. Noth said the sidewalk probably cannot be done any more this year because the weather will be too cold by the time necessary legal steps are taken.

Funeral home with the Rev. James Craanen, assistant pastor of St. Margaret Mary church, in charge. Burial was in St. Mary cemetery. Survivors include the parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Schmitzer, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Thorne of Neenah.

St. Mary High School, Menasha, began its second year of supplementary science instruction Tuesday. The voluntary attendance classes, each Tuesday night, will invite instructors from area industry and education institutions. Shown are Paul Klein, Kimberly-Clark corporation engineer, program moderator; the Rev. Roland Recichmeth, S. J. Oshkosh; and Sister M. Miranda, S. S. N. D., St. Mary science teacher.

Commission Order Forbidding Outside Work Held Invalid

Menasha Mayor Says Police, Fire Group
Action Taken Without Proper Authority

Menasha — Recent orders by the police and fire commission prohibiting outside employment of police and firemen were rejected as invalid by the council Tuesday.

The council, on an 8-1 vote, accepted all but one paragraph of the commission's Sept. 9 meeting minutes. Fourth ward Ald. Louis Gammy dissented. Thus, outside work is not prohibited, the council ruled.

The paragraph deleted dealt with the commission's order against employment of off-shift personnel. Mayor R. G. DuCharme said he had not issued any order that firemen or policemen should cease working on their off-hours. He added that the commission had no authority to issue such an order.

DuCharme said one local businessman had complained that one member, branch unspecified, had been competing with his established business, sometimes charging only half the normal labor rate.

A letter dated Sept. 10 was given both departments, citing Rule 44 on Page 41 of the rules and regulations booklet of the departments. Rule 44, however, deals only with firemen, since it specifies the 2-platoon system. Police work reopen the old municipal bathing beach for older people next summer. The beach has been unused since 1957, when the swimming pool opened.

Chest Pledges Reach $28,900

Neenah — Community Chest pledges have reached $28,912 as of the third day of the campaign which opened Monday. The pledges amount to about 22 per cent of the $126,400 goal to aid 10 youth, health and welfare agencies in the Twin Cities.

Advance and special gifts make up most of the pledges received.

Name Omitted

Menasha — The name of Charles W. Schueppert, 552 Riverway, was omitted Tuesday from a list of building committee members appointed to work on a new convent and 6-room school addition for St. Patrick parish.

Driver Fined

Menasha — Donald L. Joas, 19, 1043 Northland avenue, Appleton, today pleaded guilty to driving an unregistered vehicle. Police Justice Arthur J. Ales fined him $5 and costs.

Ways of using leadership in the homemaker program, include understanding the aims of the organization, developing needs and interests of members and sharing what has been learned, said the state leader.

Mrs. Ronald Jepson presided at the business session held by Wesley Methodist church. Other county officers are Mrs. Lyle Porter, Mrs. John Huebner and Mrs. Millard Ihde. A noon luncheon was served by the Ladies Aid of the church.

Norman Whitford, case work supervisor, discussed foster home care, and what homemakers could do to encourage interest in this program.

Project Summaries

Mrs. Jeanette Thomas, farm and home development home agent, reported on project summaries for the year. She urged homemakers to fill out questionnaires in the spring of the year for county, state and federal reports.

Community Council Checks Duplication Of Welfare Efforts

Neenah — Duplication can become a problem and source of confusion when dozens of social, welfare and educational organizations work in their communities.

To avoid this duplication and to prevent omission of other needed services, the Community council has been functioning in the Twin Cities since 1951 to coordinate community projects, both public and private.

Mrs. Ervin Lange of Neenah heard about the job of Community council in an interview with its president, Mrs. Milton Gaertner.

Mrs. Lange is a member of the Red Feather family of the 1959 Neenah-Menasha Community Chest campaign. The family is visiting organizations that will benefit from the Chest fund drive this month.

Representatives of more than 60 youth, welfare and social organizations are members of the council, Mrs. Gaertner told Mrs. Lange. The council tries to see there is little wasted effort of money in carrying out the community projects of these organizations. It also helps maintain a community calendar used by the organizations to avoid conflicts in scheduling of major events.

The council also studies problems concerning youth, the aged, mental health and marriage counseling, and sponsors activities for shut-ins and acts as a clearing house for the Christmas giving committee of the Twin Cities. The committee assures aid for hundreds of needy families during the Christmas season.

Menasha — Ann Stahl has been elected president of the Girls Athletic association at Menasha High school.

Other officers are Shirley Vissers, vice president; Norma Metoxen, treasurer; and Becky Wright, secretary.

Chairmen of the various sports activities are Julie Biggers, soccer baseball; Diane Gilbertson, basketball; JoAnn Harold, volleyball; Virginia Swieczichowski, softball; Joan Gunther, swimming; Barbara Flom, lifesaving; Marian Wildhagen, badminton; Linda Schwartz, table tennis; TD passes and set up a third with another reception.

Out of action for the game and rest of the season will be Bob Collins, starting end, who suffered a broken collar bone in the Shawano game. His spot probably will be filled by Bill Prange, another junior, who saw his first action in the Indian tilt. He was a regular back on the fresh team two years ago but didn't come out for the squad last fall.

No Other Injuries
The Jays got out of the game without any other injuries. Tackle Pete LaValle, who received a deep leg gash, has been running well in practice this week.

In discussing the Shawano loss, Coach Carl Steffin said the team did well defensively after Shawano's two quick touchdowns and he lauded the running of Bill Gerhard and linebacking of Bill Ritchie.

Over at Sixth street field, St. Mary has an extra day of drills because its game at Fond du Lac against Springs isn't until Sunday. It marks the first game on the Sabbath for the Zephyrs in several years.

Leads Conference
St. Mary currently leads the Catholic conference with a win. Little Chute St. John is next in line with a win and tie.

Springs, which has some six or seven returning regulars, got off to a good start by defeating Waukesha Memorial and Ripon but bowed to St. John by a touchdown and St. John Military academy by a point in its last two outings.

St. Mary is expected to concentrate on defense again this week for Pennings gained 195 yards on the ground against them last Saturday. The Zephyr pass defense, which had been spotty during the first few weeks, held up well

Three Injured Steelers Return

Pittsburgh — The Pittsburgh Steelers are concentrating on pass defense in drills this week in hopes of thwarting the aerial attacks of Philadelphia Eagle quarterback Norm Van Brocklin Sunday.

Three players injured in the Steelers' 23-17 loss to the Washington Redskins last Sunday were back in uniform for Tuesday's practice. They are linebacker John Reger and halfbacks Tom Tracy and Ray Mathews.

K-C Inducts 9 Employees Into 25-Year Club

Engineering, Field Service, Research Personnel Feted

Neenah — Nine new members were inducted into the Kimberly-Clark Quarter Century club at the first of two general offices gatherings, held Tuesday night at the sale promotion center. They were given membership certificate $100 savings bonds and the silver lapel pins.

More than 140 Quarter Century club members and their guests from research and development, field service and staff engineering attended the dinner.

C. G. R. Johnson, vice president and chief engineer, and Walter H. Swanson, vice president of corporate research, presented the certificates and bonds to Gilbert G. Bayley, Robert M. Eiss, Donald N. McCormack and Freeman Nichols of staff engineering, Lester F. Ponschock of field service and Norbert A. Gossens, Marjorie Jonely, Alfred Muster and Walter W. Roehr of research and development.

James J. Shipman, director of research, acted as master of ceremonies for the informal program which followed the reception and dinner. Johnson brought the greetings of management to the group.

Michael Roth, a member of the Lawrence college faculty, who has a master's degree in fine arts, presented a magical act. He was on the Canadian television circuit during the summer.

The second party of the general offices group will be Oct. 20 as the Main Office Quarter Century members gather at North Shore Golf club.

Unify City Dog Pound's Supervision
Board of Health Put in Charge Of City Kennel

Menasha — Operations of the city dog pound were put under supervision of the board of health by the city council Tuesday, after Second Ward Ald. Gordon Schanke described the former system, in which the police department and two council committees were in charge.

A contract will be given, for the first time since 1952, to Orille and Gloria Butler, for operation.

From now on, the contact will be Health Officer H. O. Haugh. Formerly, stray dogs were to be reported to the police department.

Stray dogs or cats now may be picked up by deputized dog catchers on notification from police or any citizen.

The city will pay the Butlers $100 monthly, instead of the flat $5 fee, without regard to the number of dogs taken and held for owners.

The dog catchers will receive anti-rabies injections for their protection.

City Nurse Alice Dillon will take charge of the city's immunization program, the council decided, on recommendation of the health and license committee. Miss Dillon is setting up a health program. She will be supervised by the mayor, committee and the city physician.

Company E of National Guard Seeks 25 Recruits

Neenah — Recruits who sign up now for Company E of the 127th Infantry regiment First Battle group, will be able to leave in January for their six months of active training.

The national guard company has openings for 25 more enlisted men and two officers to add to its present strength of 124 men and four officers.

County DHIA Elects Two New Members

Clarence Meyer, James Clark to Serve as Directors

Oshkosh — Two new directors were elected by the Dairy Herd Improvement association of Winnebago county at its annual dinner meeting Tuesday night at the Wesley Methodist church here.

Clarence Meyer, town of Clayton, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Amos Page, town of Menasha, who has sold his herd, and James Clark, town of Winchester, will succeed Loren Anderson, town of Clayton, for a 3-year term.

The directors later met and named Robert Caldwell, town of Black Wolf, as president to succeed Page who held the post for 15 years. Wayne Bradley, Pickett, was named vice president to succeed Anderson. The secretary and treasurer are appointed later by the board.

Mrs. Marie Hoyer, Oshkosh, spoke to the 235 persons present at the dinner on her trip to Arabia. Keith Finch, head fieldman, reported on the new laboratory facilities at the basement of the county home for the retired.

Certificates honoring those in the association whose herds averaged more than 450 pounds of butterfat in 1958 were distributed by Henry Meronk, fieldman.

If there's a small amount of ginger ale left in a bottle you can mix it with brown sugar and use it to glaze a small "cottage roll" or "daisy" ham. Use about a quarter cup of ginger ale for a cup of brown sugar.

Council Votes New Quarters For Utility

Menasha — New quarters for the water and light commission offices at 182 Main street, in the former Chudacoff grocery building, were approved Tuesday by the city council.

A 10-year lease, renewable for five more years, provides for $175 monthly rental of the store, its basement and most of the adjoining basement, under 180 Main street. Heat and water will be furnished by William Chudacoff, owner.

If real estate taxes on the building rise in 10 years, the city will pay an added rental equal to 30 per cent of the increased taxes.

Remodeling of the store is under way now. The commission will move in within a few days.

When it vacates the city offices, space will be rearranged for the city nurse, as the council decided two months ago.

New Garbage Truck OKs For Menasha

6-3 Vote Passes Unit; Packer on High Bid Approved

Menasha — By a 6-3 vote, purchases of a new truck chassis and garbage packer body for it were authorized

Gammey Klein

Tuesday by the city council. The chassis, a GMC tilt-cab unit, will be bought from Fox River Valley Truck service, Appleton, for $5,275. The firm presented the only bid.

The 17-cubic-yard packer body, a Leach, was the higher of two bids. Costing $5,185, it will be purchased from Bruce Municipal Equipment company, Milwaukee. The other unit, an M-B packer, from Sedgwick-Hamm Equipment company, Milwaukee, would have cost $3,945 for a 20-yard body.

Voting against the purchase were Alds. Fred Block, Louis Gammey and John Klein.

Gammey said he was "against these 1-bid deals."

Klein challenged the objection that the M-B was more difficult to load since two sanitation crewmen normally hoist barrels to the packing blades. The M-B unit's door is 18 inches higher than the Leach unit's.

Klein urged the M-B unit because it was larger and less expensive, and could be obtained sooner.

City Engineer M. J. Noth said the M-B unit was not as reliable as the Leach, and that on one test, the former bulged out when loaded to capacity.

Fire Station Door, Remodeling Job Set for Talks

Menasha — New fire station doors for the old city hall will be discussed by a city council committee of the whole next Monday night.

The council heard from Third Ward Ald. Lee Rather that the two front doors used by the three fire trucks are in bad repair and difficult to open.

Rather suggested air-lock doors, possibly three sets, to allow easier exit and reentry to the fire station.

New doors of the same type probably would not be available and would be wrong to use, he said.

Rather suggested the city engineer's office begin thinking about a complete front-end remodeling of the old building. Also, new windows for the building are to be considered.

Monday night, the public buildings and grounds committee deferred painting of the police station until next year's budget and asked for advertisement for bids for new windows for the old city hall building.

Notice of Injury Claim Given City

Menasha — Notice of a claim for accident damages was heard Tuesday by the city council, which referred it to City Atty. William R. Giese and the city's insurers.

The claim, in amount not yet determined, is filed on behalf of Gary Broeske, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Broeske, 546 First street, by Ray Fink, Menasha attorney.

The boy received a head injury the night of Sept. 4 when he rode his bicycle into an excavation for curb and gutter work then in progress at Fourth and De Pere streets. The police accident report said no lights or barricades were set up to mark the excavation.

The curb and gutter work was performed by Henry Verbruggen and Son, Little Chute on contract with the city.

Committee Minutes Rejected by Council
Cover Beer License, Illegal Under City Ordinance; Aldermen Vote 5-4 on Issue
Menasha — Rejected minutes of the Sept. 29 meeting of the city council's health and license committee evoked discussion by aldermen Tuesday on subjects ranging from mileage allowances to garbage trucks to the no-burning ordinance to beer licenses to sewage commission budgets.
The minutes were rejected by a 5-4 vote. Voting against accepting them were Ald. Fred Block, Louis Gammey, Lee Rather, Edward Stinski and Ray Zielinski.
Most of the discussion centered about issuance of a beer tavern license to Melvin company, Inc., which operates the bowling alleys in the basement of the Brin theater building.
City Atty. William R. Giese said the application was not in order since the firm's officers had not filled out required state forms.
Other Irregularity
Another irregularity, Giese said, was that a city ordinance forbids issuing a class B (beer) tavern license to corporations. Those getting the licenses must be residents of Menasha, 21 or over.
Giese said previous councils had themselves violated the ordinance in at least two cases since it was passed in 1933. More recent was in the case of Midtown, Inc., which operates the beer and liquor taverns and bowling alleys on Chute street.
Giese was directed to study the ordinance to see if the Midtown, Inc. license, since it has not been challenged before, was legal by default. He is to report by the next meeting.
Some councilmen and Mayor R. G. DuCharme spoke out against issuing any more beer tavern licenses, which they felt would become teenage hangouts.
Mayor DuCharme told the council that "if the so-called beer bars get out of line and become problems, I will get the sheriff to padlock them. I will prosecute if necessary."
"Not Careful"
"Some in the business are not careful to whom they dispense beer," he cited a recent instance of some minor boys who purchased a keg of beer and held a beer party in Calumet county park.
Rather said: "It's difficult to get a liquor or class B license out of this council, but it's a thousand times harder to get rid of one. We've been trying for a long time to get evidence on this place on Chute street. I can't go along with a new beer bar."
Ald. John Klein recommended review of the present ordinance in order to legalize the faults of the past and to give a new method of issuing class B licenses to corporations. (Other licenses can be issued corporations.)
Henry Tolle, president of Melvin Co., Inc., assured the council the bowling alleys would not allow those under 21 to drink beer there. "We do not intend a beer bar in any sense," he said he will apply for a liquor license next spring, for the year beginning July 1.
Unsuccessful Try
Ald. Gordon Schanke unsuccessfully urged approval of the license, because others had received them in the past. "Some ordinances we choose to enforce every day. Others only some of the time. Others only seldom if we have problems, like burning. If we have a problem, we have an ordinance to enforce."
Schanke also said the license should be granted because he is concerned with "survival or failure of a building in the city." Failure to sell beer or liquor discourages bowlers, he added.
Rather said raising the health officer's car mileage allowance was another case of the budget being exceeded. Since the money had not been budgeted, he opposed it.
Schanke said the raise should be made to correct a mistake.
Rather countered the excess should be paid on a per-mile basis. He said he thought a mistake was made in adopting the no-burning ordinance which has resulted in the city's needing a new garbage truck. "Now the streets look like alleys, with cans on the terraces," he said he was not afraid to admit a mistake in that instance.
Klein said he understood money for the extra work on picking up the increased loads of burnable materials had come from the $9,000 set aside last year for wage adjustments.
Limited Burning
Some aldermen thought the city should allow burning on a limited basis.
Mayor DuCharme said the sewage commission had been asking for much burnable material for sewage plant operation.
Rather said the city never had to pay as high a fuel oil bill as the $30,000 yearly rate his whole time and attention to the business of the department and he is expressly prohibited from following any other calling, or being employed in any other business. Although certain hours may be assigned to the several members by the chief of police for the performance of regular duty, each member must be prepared to serve at any time, day or night, when called upon by the chief."

The rules and regulations were published April 22, 1949.
While councilmen were discussing the Sept. 9 minutes, Second Ward Ald. Gordon Schanke said the council also should have had the minutes of a later commission meeting, in which two promotions were made.
Mayor DuCharme agreed, adding that he had had several calls concerning the commission's action Sept. 23, when Sgt. Roman Rappert was promoted to captain and Patrolman Gregory Resch was named sergeant and two

Oshkosh Man Dies as Crane Hits Power Line
Oshkosh — Richard Shepard, 30, Oshkosh, was electrocuted Tuesday at Elwood in Pierce county, according to the Associated Press. He was removing roofing material from the hook of a construction crane when the crane's boom touched a high voltage power line overhead.
Others named squad car drivers. (For the captaincy, two other sergeants had seniority, one in time in his post, the other in length of service on the police force.)
The mayor added he will remind the commission council rules provide their minutes should be received within five days after commission meetings.

Urges Support Of Community Theater Projects

Neenah — The only vital theater is one demanded and supported by the community, Ted Cloak, Appleton, Lawrence college professor and manager of the Attic theater, told the Optimists club members Tuesday noon at the Valley Inn. He traced the history of the Attic theater, calling 1950 the key year when the community theater project "really started to catch on."

The summer of 1959 was the biggest season for the group which plans its first winter season, starting this month. Cloak said that as far as he knows the Attic summer theater is the only one in the country working on a community basis.

It is now of area-wide interest to persons within a 50-mile radius of Appleton and he urged Fox Cities residents to consider acting, serving on the production staff or attending as evidence of support of the "living theater."

Citing the Greek drama period and the Elizabethan period, Cloak said he felt there was an inter-connection and that "when there is great vitality in the country, there is a great vitality in the theater. Living theater is necessary to a growing area such as the Fox Cities as when culture wanes, a city or country is on its way down," he said.

Speed Costs Driver $68, 6-Point Charge

Joseph E. Owens, 25, of 1321 1/2 W. Harris street, was fined $57.05 for driving too fast for conditions and $11.05 for drunkenness after he failed to appear on the charges Tuesday before Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede.

Owens was arrested about 7 a.m. Sunday after a patrolman found him asleep in his car at College avenue and Durkee street. The patrolman followed a muddy trail and parts of Owen's car from where the car went through the S. Oneida street barricade at McKinley street, dropping about 15 feet through the air over a sharp dropoff, down the S. Oneida hill which is under construction, up E. South River street to the 400 block, where it was turned around and hit a tree before being driven to College and Durkee.

Conviction of driving too fast will cost Owens three points against his driving record, the accident three more. Hit Stopped Car
Elroy E. Meyer, 23, of 208 Shawano street, New London, was fined $75 and charged six points for driving faster than reasonable and causing an accident. On Sept. 22 Meyer drove his westbound car into the rear of a halted car on Highway 10 in the town of Greenville.

Donald L. Van Horn, 18, route 2, Shiocton, also charged with driving faster than reasonable, was fined $40 and revocation of his license for six months was withheld on condition he is not arrested for a moving traffic violation in the next year. Van Horn's car failed to round a turn on a town of Black Creek road Sept. 29 and broke off a telephone pole. A passenger went to the hospital.

Hit Car
Robert F. Davis, 20, route 1, Shiocton, was fined $40 for failing to report an accident and charged six points. The Davis car hit another when he backed out of a parking stall at the Nichols ballroom Sept. 19.

Thomas J. Gosha, 18, of 501 S. Story street, was fined $10 for having objects hanging in the windshield. He was warned by Appleton police, but kept dice hanging in the windshield, the court was told.

Joseph Moser, 72, of 1925 W. Second street, was fined $25 for driving on the wrong side of the street Sept. 3 at Whitman avenue and Spencer streets and causing an accident. The offense will cost him one point, the accident three more.

Judge Schmiede also revoked his license, but stayed revocation on the condition that he has passed a driver's test.

Too Old
After his trial, Moser said he wasn't going to take any test. "I'm too old to be driving anyway," he said.

Charged with ignoring stop signs were Richard J. Kampp, 16, Menasha address unknown, 30-day revocation and $2.95 court costs, and Larry Cummings, 19, of 918 N. State street, $10 fine and three points.

Illegal Passers
Henry Van Stippen, 43, of 1927 S. Jefferson street, was fined $25 and charged four points for illegal passing and another $15 and four points for driving without a driver's license. Van Stippen's license was revoked in 1953 and has not been reinstated because he has been unable to pass a driving examination, state police indicated.

Charged four points each for illegal passing were Herbert C. Becker, 33, Wausaukee, $28.95 forfeited; Henry Borgardt, 28, Chicago, $50 fine; Jo-

Court Upholds Mandatory Weight Fines

Defendant's Ability To Pay Has Nothing To Do With Penalty

Post-Crescent News Service

Madison — The supreme court Tuesday ruled that mandatory fines do not violate the state constitution's guarantee against excessive fines and the defendant's ability to pay has nothing to do with it.

Chippewa County Judge Orrin Larrabee asked for the forfeited $13.95 on a charge of no stop light on a truck.

The New London Co-op Exchange, 305 E. Wolf River avenue, New London, posted $18.95 bond for trial Dec. 1 on a charge of having a defective hand brake on a truck.

Margaret K. Glaser, of 208 W. Prospect avenue, denied two charges of driving without a driver's license and posted $13.95 bond on each for trial Dec. 1. She was arrested by Appleton police Saturday at Memorial drive and College avenue and Monday on N. Bennett street.

Florence M. Paulsen, 43, route 2, Menasha, denied ignoring a stop sign and posted $13.95 bond for trial Nov. 16.

opinion when he was forced to fine a trucker $583 for hauling a bulldozer on a semi-trailer on Highway 29. He was charged with hauling 25,600 pounds under an 18,000 limit, and was fined 7 cents a pound plus a flat $50 — mandatory under the weight limit law.

Cites Factors
Judge Larrabee, citing that he had no alternative, explained that the fine was beyond the defendant's ability to pay, that the trucker (John Naczas, a Rusk county trucker and bulldozer operator) was not hauling for profit (the bulldozer was being taken to a repair shop) and the load could not be split.

The state denied the idea that the defendant's ability to pay had anything to do with the fine. On that theory, commented Assistant Atty. Gen. William A. Platz, "if a transient from skid row was fined $30 and he didn't have the $30, the fine would be excessive in the constitutional sense."

Ability To Pay?
In any event, Platz noted, Naczas' ability to pay was based on his own testimony. The trucker owns a farm, a truck and trailer and four bulldozers.

Commented the court, "The penalty is not to be varied or waived according to the wealth of the culprit."

The court also noted that the state highway commission grants special permission to haul overweight loads, but Naczas had not availed himself of this relief.

Davis, manager of retail advertising of the Post-Crescent and secretary of the Post Publishing company.

Better Employee Relations Recommended for Managers

Two Experts Tell SAM Conference Good Conditions Mean Profits

Management reforms, formerly adopted only by the largest, most progressive firms, were recommended to Fox Cities small businessmen by two management experts Tuesday at a 1-day conference on small business management. It was sponsored by the Fox Valley chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

L. T. White, vice president of Cities Service Petroleum, Inc., of New York, and Percy Eckholm, chairman of the Employers' Association of Milwaukee, told the 75 men and women meeting at the Elks club:

1. Small businesses should reveal complete profit and loss statements to employees.

2. Employers should arrange meetings with their employees, where the employees give their ideas and are in charge of the meeting, including the opportunity to tell the boss he is out of order.

3. Employers should have consistent policies, live up to their promises and promote good relations and understanding between management and employees.

The net result, the men agreed, would be a better company, higher profits and a lower rate of employee turnover.

Other speakers at the conference were Carl M. Flora, vice president of the First Wisconsin National bank, Milwaukee; Reginald C. Waldo, Galloway company, Neenah; P. J. DeLain, Tuttle Press company, Appleton; and P. C. Menning, Appleton Coated Paper company.

Problems," and Kenneth E. Davis, retail advertising manager of the Appleton Post-Crescent and secretary of the Post Publishing company, "Merchandising and Sales Promotion."

Flora described the differences between credit and capital and explained what type agencies can grant small business loans.

White told his audience, "You can improve management simply by being aware you can do better, then going ahead and doing it." There is always a better way to do anything, he said.

Poor Management

Small businesses that fail blame lack of capital for their failure, he said, but the customers of the business usually blame poor management. One good test of a manager is whether he keeps adequate records, on which taxes, loans and success measurement are based.

Basically, all business is helping people, White maintained. "You find a want, and offer the customer something to fulfill that want. 'If you aren't willing to serve, you can't sell.'"

A good manager doesn't do all the work, White continued. He must have time to think, he must make decisions, he must every day have a "24-hour think," he said.

Encouraged Education

White encouraged the managers to write out a philosophy of business and self and their guidance—and "live up to the principles of it." He said education would enable young businessmen to do a good job faster than their predecessors.

"All you need to know to run a business is income, expenses, profits, investment and return on investment," he declared, saying it is surprising how many managers fail to fulfill their potential because they do not know these rudimentary facts.

Five basic skills are necessary to management: seeing an opportunity, planning, organizing, measuring and improving, White said.

1. The opportunity involves finding what people want and filling their needs, he said.

2. Planning involves getting more capital, if a business is growing and splitting up ownership among stockowners if growth demands it.

3. Organizing involves careful use of employees and consideration of their abilities as well as their welfare, White maintained.

"All the boss does is figuring and planning. He doesn't do the selling," said White.

He also advocated sitting down regularly with employees, telling them the state of business and getting their ideas and complaints about their jobs and other jobs in the firm.

White Questioned

For example, White said, a secretary questioned a $40 expense account item he submitted. "She wanted to know how a man could spend $40 for one day in Philadelphia. Instead of getting angry, I told her what we had to do in Philadelphia, and she understood perfectly."

4. Measurement involves showing the employee the complete financial statement of the company, so he knows what kind of firm he is working for and so he can do his part to improve the profits. "The employee always has an enlarged opinion of what your profits are," White maintained. "Why not tell him the facts?"

5. Improving involves accepting employees' suggestions for their jobs and giving them specific jobs to do. "Make the most of their suggestions—and get their suggestions," he said.

Know Union Views

Eckholm maintained companies with good labor relations give unions less work to do. Good relations involve understanding unions. "You cannot capitulate to the demands of a union to the place where there is no profit," Eckholm said.

Good-employee relations are not a result of a 1-shot program, but of continuing day-to-day demonstration of interest in the employee, Eckholm said. Good relations combat the infamous and inaccurate grapevine, get employees to reveal their complaints about ideas for their jobs and prevent their misusing what information they have.

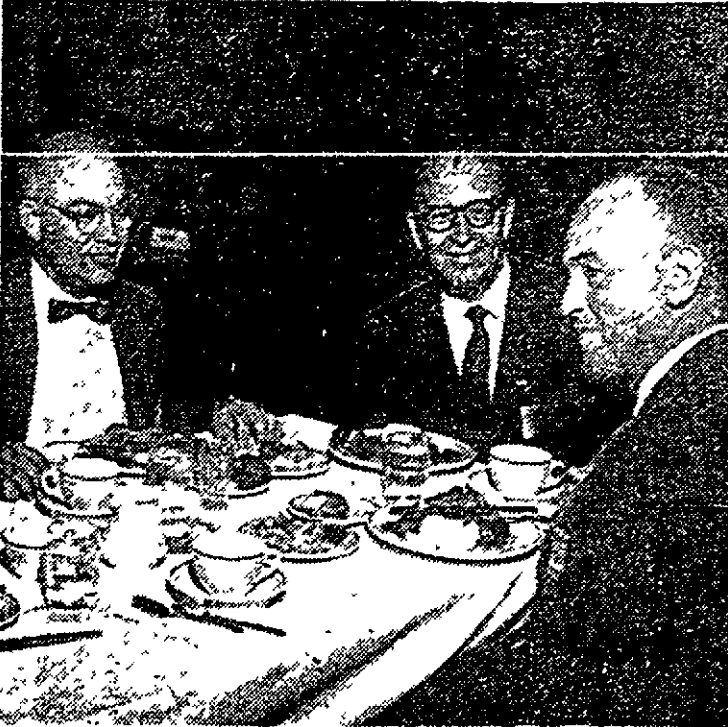

Trust in management is engendered by removing conflicts between policy and practice, promise and performance and between beliefs and understanding, he declared.

He recommended reducing programs and agreements to writing, dealing with problems forthrightly, discussing prejudices.

If such a program is follow-

A Noon Luncheon at the small business management conference Tuesday attracted managers from much of northeastern Wisconsin. Three children and an adult were hurt, none believed seriously, when a car driven by Jo Ann Nennig, route 3, Appleton, collided with a car driven by Chester E. Gardner, 53, of 805 W. Hawer avenue, Tuesday.

Injured were Mrs. Gardner and Carol Gardner and William and Marilyn Nennig, both infants.

Cars driven by Andrew R. Meitner, 38, of 538 E. Harding street, and Frederick W. Knepple, 38, of 1029 W. Bell avenue, collided at Richmond street and Wisconsin avenue about 6:20 p.m. Tuesday as Meitner turned left from Richmond.

The injured told police they would see their family physicians.

Rain Delays Potato Crop

Eagle River — Vilas County Agent Herman Smith said Tuesday that harvest of the potato crop in Wisconsin's rich growing county of Oneida, Langlade and Vilas counties is being delayed by rain and that the crop may be too soaked to be stored immediately.

Smith said there has been some signs of potato rot in the low areas and that the bulk of the crop has yet to be harvested in many areas. The bulk of the crop usually is harvested between Oct. 1 and Oct. 10.

Robert Sweet of Arrowhead

Potato Growers in Langlade county estimated about 60 per cent of the crop still must be dug.

"We are about three weeks behind schedule," he said. "Even with two weeks of good weather, we can't expect the crop to be harvested by Nov. 1."

Sweet said that the price of potatoes probably would go up this year because of the expected shortage.

Village Adding Salt Tank at Water Station

Community Growth Causes Increase in Soft Water Demand

Kimberly — A second salt storage tank is being installed at the Lincoln street pumping station to help meet the needs of the growing village as well as serve as an auxiliary while the other tank is being cleaned.

The new tank will enable the pumping station to double its salt capacity, used in the softening of water. The new tank is 12-foot deep and 14 by 18 foot in diameter and will hold 60 tons of salt.

Cost $3,400

Dick Oudenhoven construction was in charge of installing the 1-foot thick concrete tank. Bid for construction was $3,400. Some of the work such as running pipes into the tank and providing covers is being handled by the water department.

The growth of the village has put an increased demand on soft water and since only one salt tank pit was built, crews often had difficulty finding time to clean the tank and still maintain an adequate supply of soft water for the village. Installation of the tank, expected to be completed within two weeks, will eliminate both problems.

In conjunction with adding to the salt capacity, the village recently completed the painting of the exterior of the water department plant.

Soviet Cash Aids English

London—A Soviet cash is flowing into Sir Winston Churchill's parliamentary district to finance a new sewerage project.

The Wanstead of Woodford local council, just north of London, advertised for short-term loans to help finance an extension to the local sewerage works.

Official eyebrows raised when an offer of a loan arrived from the London office of Moscow's Narodny bank—for 50,000 pounds ($140,000).

But the council accepted it. There was no dissent from the 26 conservatives, three independents and three laborites on the council.

The Soviet loan is a 3 1/2 per cent interest, earning 156 pounds ($336.80) a month for the Russians.

The taxpayers also will benefit. The short-term loan avoids the necessity of borrowing at long-term rates of interest, normally around 5 1/2 per cent. This will help keep local taxes down.

Said James Dandy, chairman of the council's finance committee and himself a bank executive:

"We presume the Russians invested the money with us to make use of funds lying idle in this country. Many other foreign banks and business houses do this."

2-Day Session Here Planned to Give Boys Camping Experience

Kaukauna — East district Boy Scouts will hold a 2-day camp-o-ree at the Dodge street ball diamond beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday with general registration.

This will be one of three district events staged this weekend, a Tri-city event at Neenah and a North district event at Clintonville.

No competitive events will be staged during this camp-o-ree as it will serve merely to give boys the experience of camping out. Scouts are welcome to bring friends of scouting age.

Saturday afternoon the boys will demonstrate camping skills and Saturday night will present stunts at a campfire program. Boys will attend a church of their choice Sunday morning and break-up camp about 3:30 p.m.

Adult Leaders

Robert Beaugrand is district activity chairman, C. H. Kemp is district chairman and William Weedman is district executive. Thomas Bauer will have charge of first aid and the campfire ceremonies will be under the direction of Leo Eimmerman, Wallace Mooney and Larry Ebert.

C. R. Seaborne, Jr., has charge of physical arrangements and Joseph Van Daalwyk has charge of Explorer assistants. The district has about 365 scouts and already 200 have signed for the weekend program.

In case of bad weather the event might be postponed.

LeMay May Face Quiz For Alleged Remarks About National Guard

San Antonio, Texas — (AP) — Remarks about the national guard, attributed to the deputy chief of staff of the air force, Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, have prompted a demand for a "thorough exploration."

The demand came Monday here from Gen. William H. Harrison, Jr., president of the National Guard association of the United States.

Harrison asked Gen. Clarence A. Shoop, chairman of the association's air affairs committee, to go into the matter with his group during the guard's eighty-first general conference here.

The 4-day conference continues through Thursday.

The army - navy - air force journal last Saturday quoted LeMay as saying that the guard is inefficient and "cannot live." It also quoted LeMay as saying the "weekend soldier will not do" and that the nation "cannot afford to man our tremendously costly weapons with part-time help."

Committeemen Learn Of Farm Programs

Chilton — Community committeemen learned about the farm program being administered by the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee as the 1960 setup was outlined at a meeting Tuesday morning at the city hall.

Armin Schwabenburg, ASC office manager, explained the wool, sugar beet, price support, conservation reserve soil bank programs and wheat allotments.

Committeemen viewed established conservation practices during a field trip. They saw a concrete drop spillway on the Henry Schneider farm, route 1, Chilton, and Stockbridge.

Plant Mixture Once Valueless Oak Trees Now Aid Growth of Pine Lots

Madison — Oak trees stretching over thousands of acres of central Wisconsin have long been regarded as valueless.

Now comes word from University of Wisconsin researchers the oaks may add organic matter to the soil and build up soil fertility. This would stimulate growth of more valuable pine trees. The researchers suggest one way to grow better pines in the area is to grow more oak trees with them.

To find the role played by the oak when grown with the pines, forest scientists N. V. Debyle and I. C. M. Place studied the distribution and quantity of roots under different types of stands.

Select 2 Plots

They selected two plots in a 25-year-old Jack pine stand growing on an abandoned field, another in a 30-35-year-old stand of oak on soil that had been grazed—and a fourth in a mixed stand of oak and pine on untillied soil. Root and soil samples were then taken from 5-foot deep pits which the researchers dug in each plot.

Debyle and Place found the oak trees had a more extensive root system than the pines. The dry weight of roots taken from the pure oak plot was more than twice the weight of roots taken from the mixed stand plot and more than four times the weight of roots from the Jack pine plots.

Even more important was the discovery that the oak trees formed more small feeding roots than the pines.

The study also showed both northern pin and bur oak rooted more deeply than Jack pine. Oak tap roots were traced to depths of more than ten feet, but the researchers identified few pine roots below three feet.

Grow More Roots

Debyle and Place believe the differences are due mainly to the ability of the oak and its accompanying ground flora to grow more roots. As the oak penetrates a larger volume of soil, it concentrates more nutrients in its leaves. When these fall they build up the soil's organic matter; the continued death and decay of small roots also adds organic matter to the soil.

Debyle and Place believe during a period of rotation, the addition of more organic matter to the soil will increase its capacity to hold water and nutrients. As a result, this will boost the growth of pines grown on the soil.

The researchers say the oak has already shown it will deter crown fires where it is grown with Jack pine. The oak's ability to build up the soil fertility of Plainfield sands makes it even more valuable.

What medium do teen-agers rate "most practical"?

RADIO?

TELEVISION?

MAGAZINES?

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER?

ANSWER: THE DAILY NEWSPAPER. In a recent study of teens made by Eugene Gilbert & Co., the daily newspaper was shown to be a big influence on their living and spending habits. When asked which medium they considered the most practical, 54% said it was the daily newspaper, while only 17% named TV. To advertisers who want to get their share of the $9 billion teen market, we say, "Tell it to the teens in the daily newspaper!"

'Mack the Knife' Top Choice of Fox Cities

Recording by Bobby Darin First Choice, Paul Anka in Second

BY DICK DISC

The top tune this week is Bobby Darin's swinging version of the Louis Armstrong classic "Mack the Knife." This is the first week that it has been on top.

Paul Anka remains in second place with "Put Your Head On My Shoulder," and Sandy Nelson's "Teen Beat" has moved into third.

Top New Tunes

New tunes on the chart include "Mr. Blue" by the Fleetwoods, and "Primrose Lane" a pretty melody sung by Jerry Wallace.

Here's the top 10:

1. "Mack the Knife" by Bobby Darin.
2. "Put Your Head On My Shoulder" by Paul Anka.
3. "Teen Beat" by Sandy Nelson.
4. "Primrose Lane" by Jerry Wallace.
5. "Sleep Walk" by Santo and Johnny.
6. "Morgen" by Rex Allen.
7. "Just Ask Your Heart" by Frankie Avalon.
8. "I Kissed You" by the Everly Brothers.
9. "Mr. Blue" by the Fleetwoods.
10. "The Three Bells" by the Browns.

New tunes this week include:

Pretty Ballad
"Unforgettable" by Dinah Washington. A pretty ballad that does a top job of showcasing the willow - smooth singing talents of Miss Washington. The whole thing is strongly backed up by a pretty feminine chorus and the entire production has a great deal of feeling. Good job on a good ballad.

"Why Don't You Believe Me" by the Kalin Twins. Some solo work by one of the brothers highlights this well done single. Good beat is accented by orchestral backing. The number's greatest merit lies in the fact that it has some original sound and is well produced. Another good score for the Kalin Twins.

"To A Young Lover" by the Tassels. Though the "Soldier Boy" number that they recorded last was not what one might call a success, this one sounds a great deal like it. Another mournful ballad, it sounds, to us, hard on the ears. Strong backing again to recitation of female lead singer.

In new albums:
"Conniff Meets Butterfield" with the Ray Conniff chorus and the trumpet of Billy Butterfield. More good sounds from Conniff, this time highlighted by the superb trumpet artistry of Butterfield, who lends sound to this album in

TV May Not be Best Way to Voter's Heart

London—(AP)—Half a dozen personalities in British television are seeking parliamentary seats in Thursday's election. Some aren't sure TV is the way to a voter's heart.

Ludovic Kennedy, one of the TV prominents wooing voters, says:
"People are getting so tired of watching politicians they're switching off. I've never seen the TV medium so abused by both big parties."

Other Candidates
Candidates with TV links, besides Kennedy, are Geoffrey Johnson Smith, Robin Day, John Arlott, Charles Curran and Chris Chataway, the 4-minute miler. All are conservatives or liberals.

Several labor politicians running for parliament also are well known to viewers because of hours spent on panel discussions and interviews. Among these is Woodrow Wyatt, a former MP.

All three parties have presented lavish TV shows—a bit of patter, some old newsreels, a few interviews and a lot of fanfare.

Got Complaints

Critics agree that labor has been outstanding on TV, the liberals dull and the conservatives stuffy.

Both networks have received complaints about too many politicians on the screens.

"Many have threatened to vote against certain politicians who've postponed or canceled a western," said one spokesman.

Jack Paar Says He Plans to Retire In 2½ More Years

Miami, Fla. —(AP)—Television's Jack Paar said Tuesday he plans to retire in two and a half years and is considering buying a home at Boca Raton, Fla.

In an interview with Jack Anderson of the Miami Herald, Paar said his new contract with the National Broadcasting company commits him to two and a half more years on the hour TV show and that in turn he will be paid for seven years. He did not reveal the salary.

"I don't have the drive to stay in it," Paar said. "I don't crave the money that

Picture Head Opposed To Classifying Films

Hollywood—(AP)—Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, says he's opposed to classifying films for adults only. If it involves censorship, he's against it, he said.

The question arose, he said, because of the trend toward "more mature" plots.

"But believe me," he told a news conference Monday, "the change in subject matter is not confined to motion pictures. Plays and books have also experienced a trend toward more adult subjects."

Johnston — whose association watchdogs movie morals — said people once complained Hollywood films were too juvenile. "Now," he said, "people say we're turning out only pictures for adults—nothing for the kids."

City Officials Told Rate Hike Plea Denied

Council Recommends County Committee Hire Airport Planning Consultant

Kaukauna — The common council Tuesday night was informed by Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon, the rate increase proposed by the Wisconsin-Michigan Power company had been denied by the federal power commission.

A letter from the power commission reports the rates for Kaukauna and other customers were rejected because of the indefiniteness of the proposed effective date, depending as it did on the approval of the Wisconsin public service and Michigan public service commissions.

The commission indicated the rate hike will be resubmitted after the two state commissions approve corresponding retail hikes.

Airport Facilities
The council voted to recommend to the airport committee of the Outagamie county board the hiring of an airport consultant, with recognized standing in airport planning, to undertake a comprehensive study of the airport needs.

Council members expressed hope through this survey the needs of the county would be clarified and understood to give the people an unbiased picture of air travel development and future needs.

The city engineer and mayor were directed to meet with the Outagamie county highway commission relative to relocation of County Trunk Z in 1960. To accomplish this Tenth street would be extended through a wooded area, across railroad tracks and ravine to Island street.

New City Map
Aldermen voted to secure an engineering proposal for the preparation of a master storm and sanitary sewer enlarged map showing all necessary and essential elevations, measurements and other data. A proposal for a large new city map showing up to date data is also being sought.

The city attorney was requested to communicate with the Chicago and North Western railway, seeking permission to provide a railroad crossing on Dodge street for Island street extended. At present a guard is needed to stop traffic on the crossing when switch trains are in the area.

Additional Police
A request from the police and fire commission for one more police officer was referred to the finance committee for study. Police Chief Harold V. Engerson had requested two additional men thus permitting him to create a third sergeant's position, giving the city a sergeant for each 8-hour shift.

Verhagen along with other juniors took the tests last spring and becomes one of 10,000 finalists. Students from 14,500 schools participated and is permitted to enter the finals they had to outscore 550,000 other students.

This is the fifth year the scholarship tests have been given at Kaukauna. Verhagen will not be required to take scholastic aptitude tests prepared by college boards. Over 100 industries and professions join in providing the scholarships with amount of the scholarship based on a student's need with a minimum of $100 set.

Board Accepts Bid for Remodeling Work to Relocate Police Station

Henry Verbruggen and Son Construction Will Do Job for $4,874 at Little Chute

Little Chute — Henry Verbruggen and Son Construction is the second time the board accepted quotations on the remodeling work. This spring the board rejected all bids on the grounds that construction costs were too high.

Fire Chief Les Sanders reported Robert Jansen resigned from the volunteer department and recommended the appointment of Robert Shippy to fill the post. The board accepted the recommendation.

Buy Sewer Pipe
Approval was given for the purchase of 100 feet of 8-inch storm sewer pipe for installation on W. Lincoln avenue.

The board agreed to have the drawbridge across the canal of the Fox river operated between 4 and 5 p.m. Monday. This will enable persons who wish to haul brush to the dumping grounds, to do it after work. Trustee Richard Ebben said requests had been made for the late closing of the bridge by day shift workers who work around the yard in the evening.

The board discussed the work on N. Grand avenue where curb and gutter is presently being installed. Approval was given for the putting down of a 7-inch crushed stone base. A 2½ - inch cold mix mat will be applied to the road in spring.

It was agreed to write a letter to the state highway department requesting permission for the installation of a flasher signal light at the west village limits on Highway 96.

The project has been pushed by Chief of Police Sylvester Vandenberg who pointed out the need for such a sign to warn motorists of the cut down from a 45 to 25 mile per hour speed zone.

Installation of a cyclone fence around the water tower grounds owned by the village was discussed. Trustee Clarence Lamers said there are weeds around the present fence.

"We advertise the need for weed cutting and threaten residents with fines if they do not comply, and then we let those on our own property grow higher than the fence," Lamers said.

Blinded by the Sun, Chicago outfielder Jim Landis has trouble with a ball hit by the Dodgers' Wally Moon in the eighth inning of Tuesday's World Series game. The play went as a hit and started a futile eighth inning rally by the Dodgers. The White Sox won, 1-0.

'Smiling Irishman' Donovan Jokes After Great Relief Job

Chisox Hero Once Nearly Quit Baseball

BY JOE REICHLER
Los Angeles —(AP)— Dick Donovan, the "Smiling Irishman" was full of jokes and laughter as he bantered with reporters in the Chicago White Sox clubhouse after the fifth game of the World Series.

Why not? Rarely had a pitcher been called into a more tense, more precarious situation than was Donovan Tuesday. He came in to protect a 1-0 lead against the Los Angeles Dodgers with the bases full and only one out in the eighth inning.

Dramatic Spot

Nobody ever turned in a more courageous performance in such a dramatic situation than did this 31-year-old right-hander, who had relieved only once in the last three years.

All the Quincy, Mass., native did, with the series riding on every pitch, was to retire the ever-dangerous Carl Furillo on a puny pep fly to third baseman "Bubba" Phillips and dispose of Don Zimmerman on a routine fly to left fielder Al Smith.

In the ninth, with the score still 1-0, he needed only seven pitches to turn back the last three Dodgers to the dismay of a record-breaking crowd of 92,706 loyal Los Angeles.

Donovan had every reason to be happy, carefree and at peace with his fellow man.

But it hasn't always been so. Donovan, in his ninth year in the big leagues, has had more disappointments and frustration.

He recalled the time when the Braves, in their first year in Milwaukee, suspended him for refusing to report to Toledo of the American association. Once he disgustedly decided to chuck it all and enter the insurance business, after flopping with Detroit.

Four Runs

He remembered the turning point of his career.

"It was in 1935, my first year with the White Sox," Donovan recalled with a smile. "It was early in the season. The Sox had brought me conditionally from the Atlanta club. I was determined this time to make good. I know it was my last chance."

Manager Marty Marion started him against Kansas City. In the third or fourth inning he was shelled for four runs. Marion summoned a relief pitcher. Donovan refused to come out. He stood on the mound and argued with his

NOTES and NOTIONS

Wonder what personality mold the third manager in the Braves' Wisconsin history will fall into. We've already seen two extremes—the happy-go-lucky, colorful Charlie Grimm and the somber, businesslike Fred Haney. The tempestuous Leo Durocher—mentioned as a possibility of being Haney's successor—is in a class by himself, personalitywise. ("The Lip" is a proven baseball leader, but an exaggerated sense of his own value might lessen his chances of getting the job). "Red" Schoendienst, a gentlemanly-type guy with a knack of inspiring his mates, would be a popular choice, but his lack of managerial experience may work against him—at least this time.

Instead of trying to speculate further on the long roster of "possibles," let's recap the Haney era, briefly. He led the Braves to one world title, one National league title and two second places.

Both runnersup were in pennant contention until the last day of the official season—and one even beyond that. There are those who say Fred had the material to win it all four times. That will always remain a moot point. But, the fact remains, very few pilots—save Ol' Case—can boast of such a 4-year run of tight contention. I believe Haney has been a good organizer, a solid fundamentalist and a capable juggler of personnel to meet emergencies. On the other hand, I'd estimate Fred was not the world's greatest handler of pitchers. He seems to have ignored early symptoms of pitchers' weakening and at times waited too long to make a change. And, his springtime "Spahn-Burdette" complex in the last two years delayed the normal development of the young pitchers until well past mid-season—and this year, most of the so-called "Kiddie Corps" never did attain peak form. His early-season remarks about considering retirement were ill timed. They gave the impression that his heart was no longer in his work—and possibly weakened his control of the club.

On the whole, though, the credits certainly outnumber the debits on the Haney balance sheet. Fred called the shots during Wisconsin's most exciting baseball era to date. And, we may not have seen the last of Haney, managerially speaking. It wouldn't be too surprising one day to see him pilot the Dodgers or Giants in his beloved California. After all, Grimm and Jimmie Dykes have already proved that old managers fade away for limited periods only.

Good hitting runs in the Pascual baseball family of Cuba. "Potato," of course won the 1958 Three-I league title and placed eighth in '59 as a member of the Foxes. His kid brother, Camilo, finished with the highest batting mark (.302) of any regular American league pitcher in '59.

"If the Packers only had Tobin Rote at quarterback to go along with the rest of this team, there's no telling how many games they'd win," was a remark a Green Bay fan made just before the start of National Football league season. Those words came back to me last Sunday as I watched Detroit's Rote duel Lamar McHan in Green Bay. Though Tobin had a slight edge in total yardage and completion percentage, I doubt if anyone in the jammed-to-the-brim City stadium would have OK'd an even-up trade, Rote for the razor-sharp Razorback of Arkansas.

It remains to be seen what McHan will do on a full-season basis. But, Sunday at least, his on-target scoring passes were wondrous to behold. Could be that McHan has finally arrived after being on the threshold of NFL stardom for years. Maybe LaMar had as many bad days as good ones with the Cardinals because he wasn't happy there. Anyway, there's been no hint of a temperament problem since he's been working for the Packers. Maybe, McHan's found a home in Wisconsin.

The Burlington Bees of the 3-I league have gotten their expected divorce from the Chicago Cub organization. They hope to obtain a new working agreement in the next month or two. The Bees' directors also let Business Manager Ed Schaack go. Burlington has had

Perfect-Record Teams Clash At Neenah Saturday Afternoon

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY

Neenah — Clintonville at Neenah — a game which has title implications written all over it — highlights the weekend Mid-Eastern conference grid menu. The contest is slated for Saturday afternoon.

Other encounters, all scheduled for Friday night, are Two Rivers at Menasha, Kaukauna at Shawano and Kimberly at New London.

Neenah and Clintonville the loop's only two unbeaten teams, have the best offensive and defensive records.

Each has beaten two league and one conference foe. Clintonville has held its three challengers scoreless while Neenah has allowed a single touchdown in three outings.

Tougher Opposition

The Rockets have taken on the tougher opposition. They played Fond du Lac of the Fox River Valley conference, Kaukauna, one of the M-E's Clintonville beat a not-too-strong Portage eleven, winless New London and Shawano, whose actual strength hasn't been determined yet.

Interesting Test

Both clubs have balanced attacks and beefy lines. The Trucker lineup is well-stocked with boys who had a hand in tying the Rockets 7-7 last year, severing the Neenah unbeaten string at 19.

Chisox Change Script, Socks to Achieve Win

BY JERRY LISKA
Chicago —(AP)— The Chicago White Sox are back in the World Series after they changed their socks and their script.

The Chisox showed up for the fifth series game against the Dodgers in Los Angeles Tuesday wearing their regular stockings which have a predominant black background. They ditched their new "series" hosiery, an elegant combination featuring white.

Without Argument

This was the joint idea of owner Bill Veeck and trainer Ed Froelich. Froelich brought along the old socks, just in case. Veeck sent along the word to have the old socks flown from Chicago, if necessary, for Tuesday's "must" Sox game. But they were on hand and donned without argument by the backs-against-the-wall Chicagoans.

As for the script change, the Sox—who didn't do anything right for most of 33 World Series innings—finally did everything right by reverting to their patented cliff-hanging script in two hectic

Series Returns to Chicago After Sox Post 1-0 Win

Dillon Anticipates Fierce Game With Oshkosh

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The Lawrence college and Appleton High school football teams will both participate in homecoming games this weekend. But, the similarity ends there.

The co-third place Vikes will have the backing of the crowd at their homecoming Saturday afternoon at Whiting field, but the FRVC-leading Terrers will be in the role of visitors at Oshkosh Friday night when the Indian home-comers whoop it up.

Coaches Bernie Heselson and Ade Dillon sized up their respective teams' outlooks for the Appleton Quarterback club Tuesday night.

Heselson foresees an "even ball game" with invading Beloit.

Beloit is approximately the same size — both in weight and numbers — as Lawrence, Heselson reported. The main difference is that the Vikes have won twice and the Bucks only once. But, he added, Beloit has had a tougher schedule to date — having played both St. Olaf and unbeaten Cornell.

Win Tense Duel

The Monmouth game (won by Lawrence, 14-8) was characterized by Heselson as the most tense the Vikes have played in a long time. "We had a bad last five minutes," he said, and the game films bore him out — with Monmouth getting into good scoring position twice late in the game and coming close repeatedly to completing passes.

He commended his entire squad for holding off a bigger-

Wynn Opposes Podres Thursday; Donovan's Relieving, Rivera's Catch Save Shaw's Victory

Chicago —(AP)— It took three games, but the American league pennant winners—the Chicago White Sox everyone knows—finally showed up for the World Series at the Coliseum.

And now that they're free of the snake pit that passed for a ballyard in Los Angeles, they're sure they can sweep the final two games in their own park and win the series.

Packers, 49ers Have Contrast At Safety Spots

'Frisco Uses Two Rookies; Bays Play Vets Dillon, Tunnell

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay—The 49ers have two rookies at safety. The Packers' safety positions are manned by two veterans who have nearly 20 years of pro football experience.

That's a rare contrast—especially at such a key spot!

Dave Baker of Oklahoma and Eddie Dove of Colorado are the 49ers' rookie safeties. The Packers' safety import, Em Tunnell, is in his twelfth pro season, Bobby Dillon his eighth.

The 49ers had a stroke of exceptionally good fortune in finding two first-year men who could step into starting positions. In fact, the fine play of Baker and Dove permitted the 49ers the luxury of shifting veteran safety Dickie Moegle to offense. Moegle now "swings" between offense and defense.

How good are Baker and Dove?

Big and Fast

Wally Cruice, the Packers' chief game scout, viewed the 49ers' 34 to 0 victory over the Rams in San Francisco Sunday.

"They're both big and they are both fast," Wally said, "and I guess the results speak for themselves." Cruice was referring to the 49ers' two victories in their first two starts.

Add results: Tommy McDonald of the Eagles who caught four touchdown passes against the Giants, could get but one short reception from Norm Van Brocklin vs. the 49ers.

In that game, Van Brocklin pitched two touchdown passes to Dick Bielski (for 19 yards) and Bobby Walston (6), in the fourth quarter after the 49ers had taken a 24-0 lead. Those were the only TDs

Los Angeles Memorial coliseum for the first time.

The coliseum, filled with gold and bright sun, sent this fifty-sixth World Series rolling toward money highs with record crowds for each of the three games played in Los Angeles.

But it was an open-air dungeon full of horrors for defense, with the glare and white-shirt background leaving fielders blind.

"Our defense ought to be better in our own park," said White Sox manager Al Lopez. "Defense has been the best part of our club all year, but over there (Los Angeles) it was hurting us."

Running Stab

"I said on the bench that if we won yesterday, we'd win the series. We haven't done anything easy all year."

It was a tremendous relief job by Dick Donovan, the third game loser, that put it away for the White Sox. But it was Jim Rivera's running stab in rightcenter that saved the Sox something to put away.

Dramatic 5th Game Almost Impervious to 2nd-Guessing

BY TED SMITS

Chicago — It is doubtful if Smith would have been fast enough to do drama-packed World Series game has come up that seems almost impervious to second-guessing.

Managers Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox and Walter Alton of the Los Angeles Dodgers played a furious game of chess Tuesday and the Sox won, 1-0, but it would be hard to fault any of the moves.

is doubtful if Smith would have been fast enough to do drama-packed World Series game has come up that seems almost impervious to second-guessing.

In the eighth, again with two on and two out but with the Sox at bat, Alton walked to the mound to confer with pitcher Stan Williams, and decided to leave him in. Williams got Jim Landis to fly to center.

Alton nominated six pinch hitters in all. One — Ron Fairly — never got to the plate. "Rip" Repulski taking his place. Two drew walks and the fact the other three — including the redoubtable Carl Furillo — didn't get hits can be blamed on the breaks of the game rather than the long drive to right center. It

Xavier Beats Freedom JVs

Werner Scores 3 Touchdowns in 19-7 Grid Victory

Appleton's Xavier Catholic High school Hawks put away their third victory in four starts Monday night, bouncing the Freedom High school Junior Varsity, 19-7, in the rain at Goodland field.

Speedy left half Pete Werner scampered for all three Xavier touchdowns on runs of 78, 52 and 40 yards. For the second straight week he tallied on the contest's opening play from scrimmage, going all the way from the Xavier 22-yard line on a quick-open-er.

The Hawks made it 12-0 in the second period on Werner's 52-yard end run. Fullback Joe Nussbaum crashed over the extra point. Werner scampered 40 yards in the third period, hiking the tally to 19-0.

Final Quarter

Freedom, which included all but seven of the Irish varsity players, tallied in the final period on a 22-yard run by quarterback Jim Springstroh. Halfback Roy Weyenberg ran for the extra point. Springstroh also returned a kickoff 75 yards for a touchdown but it was called back because of a penalty.

There were many fumbles of the wet ball and just one pass was completed, by Freedom. The Gene Clark-coached Hawks tried three, Freedom attempted five.

The Hawks piled up total yardage of 204 to 131 for Freedom. Tackle Bill Helein, guard Dave Springer and linebacker Jim Young were outstanding on defense for the victors.

Xavier's next game is at 10 a.m. Saturday at Wayland academy. The loss was Freedom's second in two starts.

Thursday's Games:

Menasha at Neenah.
Kaukauna at Roosevelt.
Wilson at Kimberly.

Neenah and Roosevelt, unbeaten co-leaders in the Fox Valley Freshman football league, are home Thursday to clubs which share the runner-up position.

The yearling Rockets, who have outscored their opposition 69-6 in two starts, play host to arch-rival Menasha. Roosevelt, yet to be scored on while rolling up 38 points, welcomes Kaukauna.

Either Wilson or Kimberly will ring up its first triumph, barring a tie, in Thursday's other contest.

Last week's action turned up several high-scoring individuals. Neenah left halfback Dave Neubauer tallied five touchdowns on runs of 50, 5, 40 and 65 yards from scrimmage and a 50-yard runback of an intercepted pass against Wilson. Neubauer had counted 12 points the week before.

Kaukauna's Ron Straus went 40, 35, 12 and 5 yards from scrimmage and 33 yards with an interception for touchdowns Thursday plus tallying three extra points in a 55-6 romp over Kimberly. The Ghosts' Mike Kobussen counted three touchdowns.

Rudell Stitch, Ralph Dupas Meet Tonight

Louisville, Ky. — Ru-dell Stitch, who spent Tuesday fishing on the Ohio river, meets Ralph Dupas tonight in a scheduled 10-round welterweight bout.

The match could be important to both Dupas, ranked No. 3 contender by the National Boxing association and Stitch, ranked eighth, since Louisville promoter Bill King says he has offered $75,000 to welterweight champion Don Jordan to fight the winner here.

The bout will be televised nationally (ABC) at 8 p. m., CST.

Dupas, a fine defensive boxer with speed and an effective attack, has 95 professional fights behind him with 77 victories.

Stitch is a scrappy, fast fighter with 21 victories in 27 bouts.

UW '11' Drills Inside, Stresses Pass Defense

Madison — Wisconsin's football team got a long indoor drill in the Memorial building Tuesday, working on pass defense with the freshmen depicting Purdue patterns. It was the second consecutive day in which rain drove the squad indoors.

Coach Milt Bruhn also gave his first team a goal line offensive scrimmage against the reserves. He used Stuart Clark, a speedy sophomore back, with the first squad and indicated he might be used in spots against Purdue next Saturday.

Lowell Jenkins, a 250-pound tackle, was held out of the heavy work but is expected to be available for duty Saturday. He injured his hip in the game with Marquette.

Vikes, Beloit Rated Even By Heselton

Los Angeles — The ball players were gone and the battle site shifted to Chicago. But there was no let-up of World Series fever in this baseball slap-happy place today.

And Thursday a mass work stoppage will set in again as the citizens of this sprawling place follow the fates of the Dodgers and the White Sox via the newspapers, the wire- less and the electronic tubes.

Deserted was a Memorial coliseum, where on three hysterical days crowds of 92,394, 92,650 and 92,706 screamed, groaned and joined in the local battle cry, "Charge!"

Before heading for Chicago, players on other teams expressed confidence.

Manager Al Lopez of the White Sox frankly declared: "We're going to win this thing now."

Conservative Walt Alton of the Dodgers ducked a question for his prediction. "You know better 'n to ask me that," he said, smiling broadly.

Popular Wally Moon was less reluctant. In one word, "Yeah," he answered a win- query.

Blames Self

The chalked legend in the Dodger dressing room, printed on a blackboard since Sunday, was still evident. It read: "One to go-go-go." That was a takeoff on the Chicago go-go-go slogan.

"That still stands," Alton agreed.

The Sox 1-0 victory, and the heart-thumping eighth inning when the Dodgers tried but failed, was the main topic.

Carl Furillo, one of the Dodgers' old guard of stars, blamed himself for his pop-up with the bases loaded, and one out.

"I just got under the ball," he said. "It was a little below where I wanted it."

"All I had in mind was to hit the ball. There was only one out. I didn't care where it went, just so I hit it good."

Rivera played Neal in right center and made a spectacular, game-saving catch on Charlie's long fly ball.

"I just ran for the fence and there the ball was," Rivera related later. "I didn't bother snapping down my sun glasses, because they don't help out there."

in-size Scot team and preserving the road victory.

"We were happy to come out of that one with a win," said Bernie.

Lawrence's especially spirited third-quarter play (both on offense and defense) made the difference, Heselton indicated. The coach had special praise for his corps of 60-minute or near-60-minute players, including Bob Smith, Dave Hackworthy, Jim Schulze, Gary Scovel and Joe Lamers: Several others came close to putting in that kind of time, too, he added.

Heselton also cited Doug Millard's pass deflection—after he had originally been blocked out of the play—as a key bit of alertness that helped save the victory near the end of the game.

Dillon reported that the "real good" Oshkosh team averages 220 pounds in the line—with a couple of backs in the 215- and 185-pound class.

"We're going to have to be awfully good to beat them," declared the AHS mentor. "If they beat us, it looks as if no one else will stop them because they've already played West."

Despite a number of mistakes, Dillon indicated he was pretty well pleased with the Terrors' showing in their 21-0 win over Green Bay East. He commended center Tom Kottke and guards Dick Heiss and Ron Tollefson for the holes they opened in the center of the line. However, he pointed out that on a number of downfield situations, AHS blockers "were not cleaning them up as they should have."

Dillon labeled Dave LaViolette the fastest starter he's ever had at halfback.

And he pointed out that while quarterback John Nussbaum is not generally considered a speed demon, he is surprisingly fast—and several of his runs in the game movies underscored this.

During his film commentary, Dillon also pointed out such features as fullback Cal Kluess' extra-hard driving, Dave Walter's tough defensive play and the excellent place-kicking of Dick Wankey in the first year he's handled the assignment.

Tree Raisers Hail Two County Area

Waupaca and Waushara Projects Will be Center of Pine Tree Industry, James Meyers' Efforts

BY JAY JOSLYN
Post-Crescent Farm Editor

Pine River — Waushara and Waupaca counties are becoming the center of a Christmas tree growing industry of national size. The lumbering business of the 19th century moved out of New England, through the Midwest and into the Northwest, and the Christmas tree plantation industry is following the same pattern. The area bounded by Highways 49 and 73 and the cities of Wautoma and Waupaca was discovered by national tree growers about 10 years ago.

The New England part of the industry was established about 10 years earlier and the Northwest is just being opened up.

James Meyers, one of the few seedling developers in the area, claims the central Waushara - Waupaca county location is the finest for tree growing in the nation.

"For some reason," he explained, "trees in this area hold their color much better than any place I know of. When the plantations here are developed trees by the millions will be finding their way into homes."

With possibilities of that magnitude, Meyers is attempting, at his seedling beds between Poy Sippi and Pine River off Waushara County Trunk H, to develop pine strains that will add to the efficiency of plantation operations.

Demand Perfection

The natural woods practically have been stripped of well-shaped trees for the Christmas trade and buyers are demanding near perfection in the plantation trees on the market.

Most trees don't grow naturally into the symmetrical shape demanded on the market and much of the plantation operator's time and money goes into improving on nature through shearing and pruning operations.

Meyers believes and is attempting to prove there is a method by which selective breeding can establish symmetrical growth in a strain of trees.

If such a strain of trees could be developed, the tree farmer would be able to cut his costs considerably. From June 10 to July 1, each year plantations are busy with the shaping process. Skilled shearers and pruners in crews from five to nine all the way up to 75 move in to correct mistakes nature has made. All of this costs money and cuts into an already slim margin of operation.

Christmas tree buyers, although demanding nearly perfect trees, are reluctant to add substantially to the costs of Christmas, and the price of trees must be kept within bounds. The pruning crews, however, gaining in experience each year are in good position to demand higher wages.

Far Afield

Meyers has gone far afield to find the ideal tree of his dreams.

His seedling beds, nearly a mile from them, reveal Scotch pines from Spain, Austria and France, blue Anglemann spruce, Douglas firs and Norway and Colorado spruce. Each was selected for growth characteristics Meyers is seeking.

The route from the cone to the ideal Christmas tree is a long and tedious one and one fraught with tremendous gambles.

Meyers was lured to the Pine River area, as were many of the recent residents, by the fabulous harvest of trout for which the river is famed.

River Bottom

About eight years ago he decided to take up seedling growing as a hobby to contrast with his interior decorating and antique collecting activities in Chicago.

The nursery he established in the fertile river bottom land became a demanding mistress and it monopolized more and more of his time. He closed his Chicago business and since his wife's death in 1958 he practically closed his Chicago home.

Choosing seeds for evergreen trees is a precarious business, Meyers said. A consignment of 10 kilos of seeds from Spain once developed into 10 different strains.

Built Correspondence

There would be little chance for any selective work with such shipments and Meyers has built up an extensive correspondence with foresters explaining his exact needs.

Now some of his shippers are as selective as winterers, supplying him with date, weather and soil condition reports. Meyers now can be reasonably sure what he will get when he plants a seed in his beds.

The beds are an important, but difficult, part of his work. The soil must be sterilized and then specially fertilized. The seedlings must be hand weeded and carefully provided with the correct amount of sun.

Deer Troublesome

In addition to expected hazards in such a delicate enterprise, Meyers must worry about the creatures of the forest. Mice and other rodents eat the seed and use the protect covers or homes. However, it is the deer that cause the greatest trouble, he said. For an unknown reason they like to use the lathe sunshade covering for walk ways, trampling down the flimsy covers and crushing the seedlings without attempting to eat the shoots and do any other damage.

Nearly a Mile of Evergreen seedling beds, above, form the heart of the experiments being conducted by James Meyers, right, between Pine River and Poy Sippi off Waushara County Trunk H. By selective

The seedlings spend about two years in the beds. They are then transplanted to the field. Meyers prefers hand planting.

State of Shock

Often the seedlings will stay in a state of "operational shock" for one to four years before they start to grow. Other times a transplant will take hold immediately.

Once in the field, the periodic growth characteristics are checked. In June the pruning crews go to work. Meyers goes along with his crews and when he finds an especially fine example of natural growth or an exceptionally shaped specimen he will protect it and set it for harvesting seeds.

One of the strange specimens Meyers has found is a Scotch pine with its boughs growing up close to the trunk in much the same manner as a Lombardi poplar. The pine is well protected and Meyers hopes to discover, many years hence, if the shape may have been caused by a mutation that can be passed on to other generations.

Such a tree would be ideal for ornamental plantings. It is likely Meyers will not live to see the end of his experiment, but he is training some younger men to carry on his work.

No Fast Money

Patience and foresight seem to be chief ingredients of the pine tree breeding business.

"This is no way to make a fast killing," Meyers explained, "but all of the mysteries and questions I run into make it so fascinating it is well worth the trouble."

Meanwhile huge tree combines are moving into the Waushara - Waupaca area returning thousands of acres to fir cover for the benefit of thousands of Christmas decorated homes.

The ring of the axe will soon be heard in the area as in the days of yore. Christmas trees are felled on schedule on Oct. 20.

The trees that find their ways to the corner stands from St. Louis to Duluth-Superior represent considerable hours of tender care. If Meyers has his way, though, in the future—some time in the future—Christmas trees in the home will be materially in the same shape as they were in the field and plantation operators and home owners alike will be able to thank the patience of the transplanted man from Chicago who got an idea and stuck with it.

Weeds Increase In Wisconsin

Little Known Ones To be Shown at Farm Field Day

Madison — Some little-known weeds are apparently on the increase in the state. The more serious of these weed pests will be the subject of an exhibit at the university's annual Farm Field Day, Oct. 8.

Don Peterson, agronomist, plans to display the potted, growing weeds in a recognition exhibit. Farmers can learn to identify these pests as well as obtaining recommended control procedures.

Giant foxtail is listed among the more troublesome new weeds. This annual has recently begun plaguing corn raisers in southern Wisconsin. Farmers in Indiana and Illinois are familiar with it.

Penny cress (commonly called stinkweed) can be a headache to dairy farmers. When fed along with forage to cows, this winter annual taints milk.

Yellow rocket, has been around for several years. Like penny cress, it is an early seeder. It is a particular problem in alfalfa and clover. Farmers who wait to hay until late June and July are most frequently bothered with yellow rocket. Peterson says that the seeds are often spread through livestock manure.

Farm Costs Up

Washington — The Agriculture Marketing Service says farm operating costs are running substantially above a year ago. Total expenditures were estimated at an annual rate of $25,800,000,000 during the second quarter of this year compared with $25,200,000,000 during the like quarter last year.

Black Creek — State veterinarians Monday night told Outagamie county farmers cattle tested for tuberculosis and found reactors in August were not all reactors in a retest program begun two weeks ago.

The crew of doctors appeared here to answer questions of farmers whose herds had been tested this summer.

Dr. Milo Johnson, assistant state federal veterinarian said, "Incidence of reactors is higher today than in the last 15 years. While the number of reactors is increasing, the number of lesions (lumps of the disease on lungs and interior) decreasing," he added.

In 1939, 26 per cent of cattle tested showed no lesions. By 1949 it rose to 39 per cent and in the last six months 93 1/2 per cent of reactors showed no lesions. Dr. A. A. Erdmann, chief state federal veterinarian, said.

The doctors said research now is being done to attempt an explanation of this situation. They told farmers the problem is nationwide.

Dr. Erdmann explained a Sauk county test upon which the Outagamie county survey was based. A 6-step program was started to find possible answers to reactors, he explained.

ices and habits were noted to see if clues to the rise of reactors could be found. Farm soil types were taken. Members of farm families were checked in cases where reactor cattle were found.

Twenty-five men working five weeks tested 1,515 herds or 43,000 head of cattle in Outagamie county in August. Of this number 322 herds contained reactors with 625 reactor cows. One herd in five, or 21 per cent, had reactors, the doctor said.

Run in Ages
Reactors seemed to run in a certain age group, he said. In Outagamie county it was in 3-year-olds. Ellington township was found to have the highest incidence of reactors, he added, with reactors in 62 herds and 138 reactor cattle. A high degree of reactors was found in eastern townships, but not in the west, he explained.

During retesting now in progress, he said, 109 herds have been tested with only five or eight herds having reactors. This drop is the unexplainable puzzle, he said. Research may show the answer in coming weeks.

It might be that people who have the disease sensitize cattle or vice versa, the doctor said. But, he added, meat cooked right and milk pasteurized will not carry the germ to humans. Only milk from reactor cattle which is not pasteurized can harm humans, he added.

When results of the retest are known, some answers to TB questions may be found, the doctors agreed.

County Agent
Replies to Queries
Of Gardeners

County Agricultural Agent John Powers gave Outagamie county gardeners tips on planting and care for plants over the long winter. His answers to questions follow:

Question: Should spring bulbs be planted this fall?
Answer: Now is the time to get Tulips, Hyacinths, Daffodils and Crocus bulbs in the ground. It is also a good time to divide and transplant old plants. Bulbs should be planted in a well-drained, sunny soil. They should be planted about 2 or 3 times the diameter of the bulb deep and should also be spaced 2 or 3 times the diameter of the bulb apart.

Question: Should strawberries be covered for winter?
Answer: Most small fruits need protection from cold weather and snow. Now is a good time to get the mulch ready to place over them. Any loose, fluffy material that holds snow makes a good mulch. Marsh hay is the best but straw and corn stalks will work. Put the mulch on strawberries when the temperature reaches 20 degrees. Raspberries don't need mulching but should be protected against rabbits and mice.

Question: Which is best, spring or fall plowing for the garden?
Answer: Fall plowing has several advantages over spring plowing. Gardens that are plowed in the fall dry out faster and warm up earlier in the spring. Home owners usually have more time in the fall to get the job done. All old refuse from the summer crop should be removed to get rid of weed seeds and places for plant insects to over-winter. It is a good idea to spade or plow a little deeper each year to increase the depth of the fertile growing soil area.

35,000 Eggs Collected by Automatic Process Weekly

Hortonville Farm Poultry House Called 'One of Finest in the State'

BY SHIRLEY VANCE
Hortonville — A automatic collection of 35,000 eggs a week is a lot of eggs—scrambled, fried or gathered.

Just that many eggs are collected on the Lamert Kramer farm one and one half miles south of here. The automatic poultry house has been called the "finest of its kind in the state," by a poultry management representative.

Kramer erected a 150 by 50 foot building which will accommodate about 5,000 laying hens and is equipped with 790 roll-through nests. A bird enters the nest, lays her eggs and the eggs roll through the nest into baskets in an aisle. This provides easy gathering, keeps eggs clean and prevents other birds from sitting on the eggs.

Gathered 3 Times
Eggs are gathered three times a day, in 10 baskets which hold 150 eggs each. Baskets are wheeled into a cooling room for two hours. The same room is used to cool cases packed with the eggs which are picked up twice weekly by wholesale egg dealers.

Chickens live in a strictly controlled environment to keep the birds from molting. With that number of birds there is a problem of heat rather than cold even in winter. Each bird gives off five BTUs of heat so the building is ventilated thermostatically and air changes completely once a minute.

Registration, set for 10 a.m., will be $2 for adults and one for students.

An Overall Shot of a cyclone, ventilating unit and egg laying house is seen in the top shot of the automatic poultry house of Lamert Kramer, Hortonville. At left Mrs. Kramer stands with a gathering cart and baskets behind laying nests. Kramer, lower right, shows the automatic waters and feeders used for the hens.

Included in the program will be lectures, demonstrations and a dress rehearsal of "Inherit the Wind" in the evening.

Helps Growers Research Top Project Under New Cherry Marketing Order

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Research and surveys will probably be the most important projects under the new cherry marketing program of the state department of agriculture, financed through a one tenth of a pound assessment upon the harvests of the cherry growers of Door and Kewaunee counties.

The prospective yield of the levy, for the early years at least, will be relatively small as an advertising fund, which is also listed as one of the purposes of the special assessment approved by the growers in a referendum.

Red Tart
A section of the new order emphasizes research in production, packing or distribution of red tart cherries, the type for which the Door peninsula is known nation-wide.

Such research may include the development of objective quality and maturity factors for cherries, better methods of harvesting, and the development of more disease resistant varieties for marketing.

Other Enterprises
Other enterprises might include the development of special nutritive qualities of cherries produced in the Wisconsin peninsula, container and packaging studies, and improved handling techniques to promote more efficient operations.

The state order also provides that in promotion work the programs shall "not make use of false or unwarranted claims on behalf of cherries nor disparage the quality, value, sale or use of any other agricultural commodity."

Expert Plowers Of 16 Nations Meet in Ireland

Tractor-Men to Compete Two Days For World Title

Belfast, Ireland —(AP)— Expert tractor plowmen of 16 nations are concentrating at the northern Irish community of Army, in County Antrim, for the annual world plowing contest. It takes place Thursday and Friday.

The object of the plowmen is to see which can turn the straightest, truest furrow. Laying smart furrows side by side with mathematical precision, so that a whole field takes on a tidy, rich-black appearance, is also one of the aims.

Contestants already here are polishing their equipment until it gleams like kettles in a proud housewife's kitchen.

Team Competition There will be competitors from the United States, Canada, France, Austria, England, Northern Ireland, West Germany, the Netherlands, Australia, Belgium, New Zealand, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Italy and Czechoslovakia.

The usual team consists of two plowmen, chosen in elimination contests in their own countries, and a manager. Some have technicians to keep the tractors in tune and some are accompanied by cheering fans — enthusiasts who cross oceans just to see a good job of plowing.

The golden plow, top trophy in the international contest, bears the inscription, "pax arva colat"—let peace cultivate the fields.

Plowing Is Art In Northern Ireland, where plowing is regarded as a fine art, interest is intense. Army expects 50,000 visitors.

The demand for fast transportation to the village, about 50 miles north of Belfast, is so great that a temporary airfield has been laid out. It will accommodate helicopters which will shuttle between Army and Belfast.

The plowing will take place in fields near the 17th century farmhouse of James A. Craig. The Craig farm is something of an agriculture museum. Visitors may see its old scutch mill in which centuries ago a primitive flail-like apparatus beat flax for linen.

The world champion with a plow right now is Leslie Goodman of England, victor in 1958 and a hard man to beat. In 1957 the champion was Walter De Lint of the Netherlands.

Trial Begins in Traffic Death of Kaukauna Man

Green Bay —A jury trial in which the widow of Leo Dorn, route 1, Kaukauna, seeks damages for the traffic death of her husband in Brown county on Aug. 8, 1957, began here Tuesday before Civil Judge Raymond Rahr.

Mrs. Lucille Dorn brought the suit against Merlin Bowers, driver of the car which struck her 66-year-old husband, and Henry Rupiper, a passenger in her husband's car.

Dorn was struck and killed by the Bowers' auto after he got out of his own car to investigate engine trouble. Dorn halted the vehicle in his traffic lane on County Trunk D near the Hickory Grove sanatorium. The Bowers' auto approached from the opposite direction in the other traffic lane.

Questions concern the spot where the victim was struck and whether the lights of the stopped Dorn auto were turned on or off at the time of the fatality.

Prices Mixed On Exchange

Electronic and Aircraft Issues Show Advances

New York —(AP)— Aircrafts and electronics advanced in an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

A few of the "glamor" stocks made gains running to around 2 points.

Key issues throughout the list, however, produced gains or losses mostly within a 1-point range.

Space age stocks apparently reflected expectations of continued government spending for rocketry now that the Russian satellite is rounding the moon.

Gains of 2 points or better were scored by Zenith, Thokol and Texas Instruments.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at $222.50 with the industrials down 70 cents, the rails up 40 cents and the utilities up 20 cents.

Corporate bonds were mixed in light trading.

U. S. government bonds moved higher.

Trio of Youths Find Beer Party Costly Affair

Three Neenah 18-year-olds found furnishing beer to a 15-year-old companion an expensive recreation after a hearing Tuesday before Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede.

Darrel G. Clough, 307 Van Street, Dennis Pitsch, 203 Smith street, and Harold A. Giebel, 401 Sherry street, all of Neenah, admitted giving the 15-year-old boy, also from Neenah, enough beer to make him very intoxicated and ill. Each was fined $75. Pitsch admitted buying nine quarts of beer Saturday night. Police found empty beer bottles scattered around St. Pius X school and the trio staggering near Wisconsin avenue and Richmond street about 10:30 p.m.

The trio of 18-year-olds also was sentenced to five days in the Outagamie county jail, but Judge Schmiede withheld the sentence on the condition they are not arrested for anything other than traffic violations during the next year.

Dedication of the arena is set for 2 p.m. with queen candidates presented at 2:30 p.m.

Delayed Ignition and Overabundance of soot combined early Tuesday afternoon to cause an explosion in the oil-burning furnace of Howard Westphal, 1118 W. Franklin street. The explosion blew off pipes in the basement and on the second floor, and the door of the furnace. Damage, Fire Chief Neumann reported, was minor.

Chief Answers Annual Fire Prevention Quiz

Home Cleanup Can't Wait Until Next Spring

By PAUL NEUMANN
Appleton Fire Chief

Sunday was the start of Fire Prevention week, and the annual question again is: What can you do to help prevent fires?

Basically, there are two things. You can make your home fire-safe and make your family fire-safe conscious.

You can start by becoming a fire hazard hunter in your home, by attempting to locate and eliminate the danger spots there.

Where do most home fires start? Over half begin in either the kitchen or the living room. Bedrooms and basements are other major sources of home fires.

What are the major causes of fires?

Year-in, year-out the front-runner is matches and smoking, followed by misuse of electricity.

Rules Simple

Matches and smoking caused one-fourth of all fires during the past decade. Most of these fires were caused by carelessness—smoking or lighting matches in dangerous places, careless disposal of cigarettes and matches, smoking in bed, or children playing with matches.

Practicing these few simple

Need Proper Fuse

A proper fuse is a safety valve, and the blowing of a fuse is a warning the circuit is overloaded or defective. Be sure to use only fuses of the right amperage for circuits—usually 15 amperes.

Matches and smoking and misuse of electricity account for 46 per cent of all fires in this country. Obviously, they require special vigilance.

Most other fires—particularly those in the home—can generally be attributed to bad housekeeping.

Is your basement or attic littered with stacks of old magazines or accumulated newspapers, rags and other combustible rubbish? These are some of the fuels fire feeds on.

Wood Shingles

Other examples of house-keeping hazards are dirty furnaces and chimneys (our department had one furnace and one chimney call just Tuesday), greasy stoves and rules will mean greater safety:

Keep plenty of ashtrays handy—and use them!

Make sure every cigarette, cigar or match is out before you dispose of it.

Before you go out or go to bed—especially after entertaining—make a brief inspection to be sure nothing is left burning.

Never strike matches or carry lighted matches or candles into closets, attics or other confined places where clothing or combustible materials are kept.

A tragic number of fires are caused by dozing smokers.

Electricity

The second most common cause of fires, misuse of electricity, caused 21 per cent of U. S. fires in 1958.

Today families are using electricity in record quantity. Homes have refrigerators, electric washers, television sets, phonographs, freezers, clothes dryers and air conditioners, in addition to the smaller, common appliances.

The question is: Is your home properly wired to carry this load? Too often not—for inadequate and faulty wiring causes many home fires.

arelessly stored oily rags, paints and flammable liquids.

One of biggest causes of fires in Appleton is wood shingle roofs. These are set afire every year in large numbers not only by the householder's own furnace sparks, but by those of his neighbor's furnace.

Obviously, to prevent fires you can't wait until spring cleaning to eliminate these common fire hazards. Clean up now—and stay cleaned up year-round. That is practical fire prevention.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

MR. BEARD A BARBER in White River Junction, Vt.

THE CHURCH OF ST. NICHOLAS of Alicante, Spain WAS CONTRACTED TO BE BUILT IN EXACTLY 46 YEARS - NOT A DAY LATER - OR A DAY SOONER

PARSNIPS 26 INCHES LONG GROWN BY JAMES THOMAS, Neenah, Wis.

"O yell take the high road and I'll take the low road and I'll be shodder afore ye"
